Resident fed up with kish

GRANITE CITY — One resident decided he'd had enough of pollution when part of the city was covered with a layer of kish

Tuesday night.

Patrick Forsys is selling his house at 2331 East 24th St. because he is concerned about his family's health.

"I don't think anybody should have to breathe this," Forsys said, referring to the thick layer of sparkling dust covering his car. He said the dust wasn't on his car when he got home from work Tuesday.

GRANITE CITY — No occupancy permits will be issued for a new apartment complex and the owner of the complex may be cited for up to $500 a day for violating a city zoning law.

A situation at a two-building, eight-unit apartment complex at the intersection of 27th and Adams streets was described in a letter by assistant city attorney John Hopkins as becoming "increasingly intolerable."

The letter, addressed to Ronald White, of C&R Investments in St. Louis, said White had 10 days to submit a required drainage plan or the city would seek legal action.

An engineer for the city, Ed Schulze, said the engineering office will not issue any occupancy permits to tenants wanting to move into the complex.

Schulze said a manager of the apartments went to the engineering office Wednesday to see if an occupancy permit would be granted. He said the manager was told the building had not yet been approved as being in compliance with city building codes and therefore could not qualify.

Shoney's won't sell Nameoki land

By Dave Gosnell
Staff writer

GRANITE CITY — Shoney's Restaurants Inc. has dropped its plans to sell part of its Nameoki Road property.

Mayor Von Dee Cruse said at the City Council meeting Tuesday that the division president of Shoney's, Jim Arnette, has told Cruse the company will not sell part of its property to Jiffy Lube, a chain of car lubrication shops.

A Shoney's representative had said in a letter to Cruse two weeks ago that the company planned to sell part of the land to Jiffy Lube and that Shoney's had delayed indefinitely plans to build a restaurant in the city.

Cruse then sent Shoney's management a letter critical of the company's intentions, and accused the representative of misleading city officials by not informing the city earlier of Shoney's plans to sell land.

In June, the City Council voted to rezone a section of Nameoki Road from residential to commercial to make way for a Shoney's. The rezoning petition by Shoney's sparked arguments among council members and opposition from nearby residents. No mention was made by Shoney's at the time of any plans to put another business on the property.

Shoney's bought the property Aug. 22, which was the scheduled closing date.

Man to harvest crop of farmers

By Bill Bagby
Staff writer

MADISON — George Mathis has always wanted to live on a farm. Now he plans to use that wish to help others.

The muscles in his arms tightened as he gripped the wheels of his chair and pushed it toward the kitchen where, laid out on the table, were plans to purchase and use farm land on which physically and mentally handicapped people could live and work.

Mathis said the impaired people can raise livestock, poultry and crops (with the help of special implements), and they can manufacture many items.

The people would raise their own food, he said. Many of the items can be sold, Mathis said, and the workers would share profits. With enough money, some of the handicapped people could get off Social Security and be more independent, Mathis said.

"It's a hell of a feeling to be independent," said Mathis, 25, who lost his ability to walk in 1977 due to an injury suffered while working on a carnival ride.

Mathis said he has two possible sites for the farm. One is near Cape Girardeau, Mo., where there are many walnut trees, he said. Items can be produced from walnut wood and sold. The other farm would be within 30 minutes of St. Louis, Mathis said.

Mathis said he wants to break ground next spring, and expects to make $75,000 during the first year of operation. Mathis wants residents of the farm to make "above, beyond and over what they make on Social Security," he said. "And it can be done."

"It's a hell of a feeling to be independent."
George Mathis, Madison

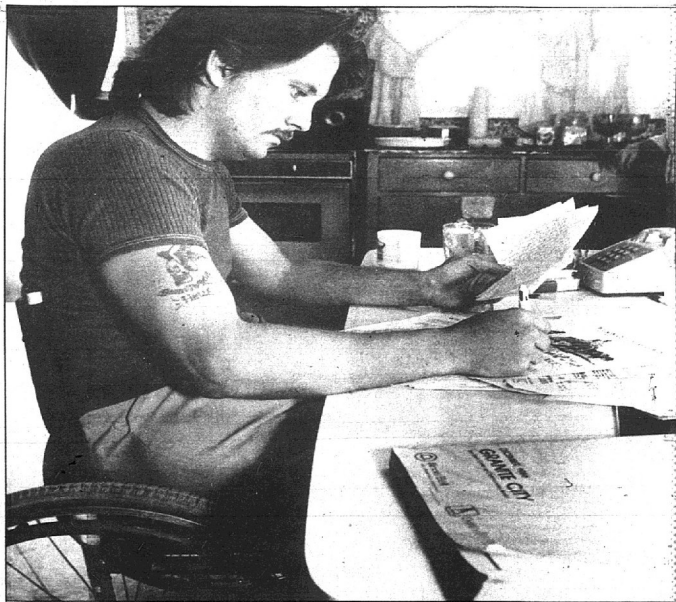

There are four handicapped farms in the country, Mathis said, and all have been successful.

By providing housing, Mathis said, the farm will meet a major need. He said many impaired people can't find suitable housing.

Mathis hopes to raise donations for a downpayment on the farm by seeking donations from corporations, churches and private citizens, he said. Mathis is getting a non-profit business license for the farm. He cannot start collecting donations until he receives the license, he said.

Since the license will be issued in Missouri, donations cannot be solicited in Illinois, Mathis said. Mathis also hopes to earn down payment money from the sale of a locking system he invented for sliding windows on pickup trucks.

Persons wanting information on the farm can call Mathis at 877-6789.

Hewlett gets back on board

GRANITE CITY—Former 4th Ward Alderman Tom Hewlett was named to the City Plan Commission by Mayor Von Dee Cruse on Tuesday with the City Council's unanimous approval.

Because he served as a Plan Commission member from spring until December 1985, Hewlett said he'd face if he accepted the post. "You have to go prepared and do a little homework," Hewlett said Wednesday.

Tom Hewlett Back on board

"That's why I didn't jump right at it." However, Hewlett said he took the job to serve the community.

"I'm interested in how the city develops and that it develops in a progressive way that makes sense," Hewlett said.

Appointed alderman by Cruse in December 1985, Hewlett replaced former 4th Ward Alderman Phil Miller who had resigned to work at the Granite City sewage treatment plant.

Hewlett lost in the April aldermanic election to Dan Partney, who on Tuesday seconded the motion to confirm Hewlett's commission appointment.

Enrollment falls at schools

By Bill Bagby
Staff writer

Enrollment declines continue this year in most Quad City Area public schools, with a total of 10,188 students registered for classes.

This represents a reduction of 287 students, or 2.5 percent below last year's total enrollment of 10,455.

In Granite City, 8,374 students were enrolled in classes as of Tuesday, compared to 8,694 last year. This is a decrease of 230 students.

the two junior high schools, and 2,698 at the high school.

In Madison, 1,316 students were enrolled in the district as of Tuesday, compared to 1,396 last year. This is a decrease of 74 students from last year.

The Venice school system reported an increase in enrollment from last year. As of Friday, 493 students were enrolled in the district, compared to 461 students enrolled on Sept. 4, 1986. This is an increase of 32 students.

A total of 331 students enrolled this year in grades kindergarten through eighth. There are 167 pupils at Venice High School.

Parade on Labor Day

GRANITE CITY — Labor Day 1987 will bring an old-fashioned observance of the holiday, saluting founders of the trades and industrial union movement.

On Monday, Sept. 7, there will be a 10 a.m. parade by labor groups and bands, starting at Niedringhaus and Edison avenues.

The parade will go east on Niedringhaus, then north on Madison Avenue to 29th Street, where it will disband. Many marchers will go from there to Wilson Park, in the area of 29th and State streets, for a ball game, and other events.

Assembly for the parade of about 30 units will start at 8 a.m. To participate, call 452-1130 or 877-4330.

Parade marshals will be four United Steelworkers of America presidents, John Painter of Local 16, Burl Hand of Local 30, Dave Dowling of Local 67 and Norman Roy of Local 68.

County tops 250,000

By David Rocks
P-R/Washington bureau

WASHINGTON — Madison County's population grew by nearly 2,600 people between 1980 and 1986, according to a report released by the Census Bureau on Monday.

The county's population grew from 247,664 in April 1980 to an estimated 250,200 in July 1986, an increase of more than 1 percent, the study shows.

The report details changes in population in the nation's 3,133 counties from 1980 to 1986. Almost three-fourths of Illinois' 102 counties lost residents in that time.

Neighboring St. Clair County's population grew by 0.8 percent, or 2,100 residents, to 269,700, the study shows. Jersey and Macoupin counties lost about 300 residents each, with estimated 1986 populations of 20,200 and 49,100, respectively.

Monroe County grew by 1,100 residents to 21,200, and Clinton County increased by 1,000 to 33,600.

In Missouri, St. Louis County grew by 2 percent to 993,200 residents, while St. Charles County grew from 146,183 in 1980 to 181,900 in 1986, an increase of 26.2 percent.

Silver Franklin buys Venice Gas and Oil

By Valerie Evenden
Staff writer

VENICE — The purchase of Venice Gas and Oil Co., 1101 S. Fourth St., was announced last week by the new owner, Silver I. Franklin, 518 Washington Ave., who proposes to make some major renovations in the future.

Among his plans is a new Venice Service Center building, which already is under construction directly across the street from the service station.

The building permit calls for a frame and brick all-purpose structure with an estimated price tag of $10,000 to be constructed at 1102 S. Fourth St.

"We broke ground for the building yesterday," Franklin said. "Only shed and storage tanks formerly occupied the building lot."

Eventually, he hopes to combine the service center with a convenience store, Franklin said.

Anthony Matthews is now manager of the service station and is one of seven employees, the new owner said.

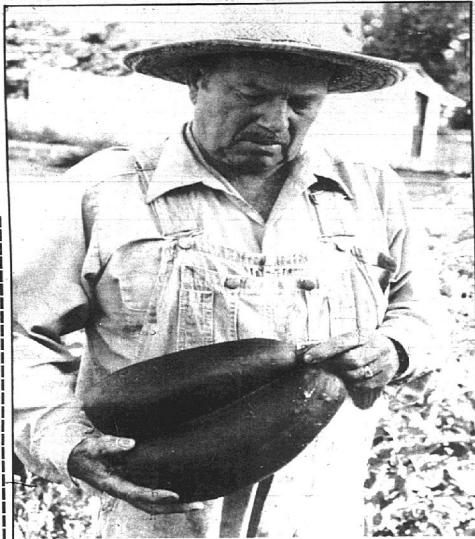

"All the employees are residents of the City of Venice," he said. New uniforms have been provided the employees, he added.

"We still have only the three pumps, but we are planning some major renovations there," Franklin said.

A 2nd Ward alderman, Franklin was elected to his first public office in April, defeating long-time alderman George Mangiaracina.

Venice Gas and Oil is the only service station in the city. The previous owner was James J. Schaefer, 200 S. Madison St. Jenne's son, Mike, operated the station for a period of time.

Franklin is a senior customer service engineer for Xerox Corp. and a lifelong resident of Venice.

IP rates opposed

GRANITE CITY — About 200 people gathered at the Granite City Township Hall last week to discuss issues surrounding recent Illinois Power electric rates and an offer by IP to level summer and winter rates. It was the second such meeting this month.

Customers of IP will not see a lower summer rate. The Illinois Commerce Commission on Friday turned down the IP request to lower summer rates and to increase winter rates.

The ICC said it does not have the authority to order a utility company to give rebates. IP had proposed giving its residential customers a rebate if the commission lowered the summer rates.

"If (the proposal) only applies to residential customers. One of the commissioners pointed out that they could be held responsible for discrimination against other customers," said an ICC spokeswoman, Beth Bosch.

Bosch said the decision did not prevent IP from giving a rebate on its own, which would not require ICC approval. She said the ICC could not guarantee that IP would use lower rates to give rebates.

Larry Martin, a Granite City resident spearheading an anti-rate increase petition drive, announced that 11,000 area residents had signed a petition calling for a rollback of an 18 percent IP rate increase this year.

Another petition organizer, Bill Zinn, said he had collected about 8,000 local signatures on a similar petition. Zinn said he expected to collect about 135,000 signatures statewide.

The increase made summer

electric bills jump at least 40 percent, it was said.

Controversy continues

ANNOUNCED — The village's plan to buy land and hire a project "clerk" was forced into the open by two trustees at a meeting in Granite City on Friday night.

Trustees Loren Madison and Don Rea criticized proposed appointment and contractual arrangements for the unnamed "clerk of the works."

They also opposed the village authorizing a $3.5 million bond issue to finance the infrastructure of Chouteau Trace 1, a Tax Increment Financing District.

The fireworks started when Mayor Glen Wilson prepared to end the meeting and asked if there was other business.

"I make a motion to reject the proposal in its entirety regardless of whether it's rewritten or not," Rea said.

Rea said, "They want us to acquire the land to build the streets and easements for drainage, utilities and storm sewers. They want us to buy about three acres for a little over $380,000. That's over $100,000 an acre."

Mobile homes rejected

PAYTON, Ill. — Village trustees last week upheld a recommendation by the Zoning Board of Appeals to deny a special use permit to locate more than 100 mobile homes on property at 3860 Rodney Drive.

THE LAW AND YOU

BY RICK REED
Attorney At Law

Sometimes people criticize juries for returning verdicts in excess of one million dollars. The public is often quick to point out that most workers do not make this much money in their lifetime. Therefore, many feel that even a person who is totally incapacitated as a result of someone else's negligence should not be awarded these large sums of money. However, it is important to note that juries consider more than lost earnings when awarding sums of money. A recent case will help illustrate the things which are considered by a jury in these situations.

In this matter, the plaintiff was an interstate truck driver who was involved in an accident when his trailer brakes failed. The vehicle he was driving crashed into a canyon wall in Utah. He suffered multiple injuries, including the amputation of his right leg. He and his wife eventually brought suit against the trucking company that employed him as well as against the company that serviced and inspected the trailer for his employer.

The jury returned a verdict of $1,390,000 for the husband and a verdict of $880,000 for his wife for the loss of the co-operation, affection and companionship of her husband. The question arose on appeal as to whether the amount of the jury verdict was excessive. The test used when examining a verdict is whether or not the total amount of the verdict falls within the limits of fair and reasonable compensation or is so large as to shock the judicial conscience.

The Appellate Court in this case upheld the amount of the verdict. The evidence presented established that the driver's actual monetary damages included medical expenses of $26,000, future medical expenses of $25,000, and past and future loss of earnings of $551,000. The Court noted that he had suffered fractures of both legs and eventually lost his right leg amputated. In addition, he had a fractured clavicle which left him disfigured and impaired the function of his shoulders. It was noted that many of these conditions would worsen, and none of the conditions was expected to improve.

The Court also noted that before the accident, the plaintiff enjoyed such activities as dancing, fishing, camping and hunting. He no longer could engage in these activities after the accident. Because his quality of life had been affected as well as his earning potential, the Appellate Court felt that the amount of the verdict was reasonable.

152 complete library's summer reading program

During the eight-week summer reading program at the Granite City Public Library, 4,319 books were read by 257 children.

Of the total number of children, 152 completed the requirements and were invited to end-of-program parties held at the main library, 2001 Delmar Ave., and the branch library, 2020 Johnson Road.

At the parties, the youngsters purchased books, pencils, toys, posters and stickers with "book bucks" they earned by reading during the summer.

Local businesses that helped the program by making donations were Pizza Hut, Dairy Queen, Schnucks Supermarket, McDonald's and Movie Mania.

A variety of special programs sponsored by the Madison County Arts Council was presented at the library during the summer. The programs featured storytelling, puppetry, drama, sign language, and music.

Huston re-appointed, Smith joining board

Without any discussion the Madison County Board on Aug. 19 approved the re-appointment of Thelma Huston of Troy to the county's Board of Review.

Huston is the lone Republican member of the three-member board, which hears property assessment objections.

Republicans on the County Board had held up re-appointment when Huston's term expired May 31, but she continued to serve on an interim basis.

Board member Homer Henke, R-Moro, said at the time that Huston had not contacted any of the Republicans about re-appointment and that he had heard some citizen complaints that Huston had been rude.

Also, the County Board also appointed of Elmer Smith of Madison to serve the unexpired term of Roderick Bauder as a commissioner of the Metro East Sanitary District.

Church plans old-fashioned Brush Arbor Day

Briarcliff Pentecostal Church, 1120 W. Pontoon Road, will host an old-fashioned Brush Arbor Day, starting at 10 a.m. Sunday, Sept. 6.

The daylong celebration is in honor of the pioneers of Pentecost, who worshipped in brush arbor much like the one Briarcliff will be recreating inside its church.

The Rev. Norman Culbertson, known as the original Old Country preacher, will be the featured morning speaker.

Following worship, an old-fashioned polluck dinner will be served, with ice tea in fruit jars.

Activities, such as volleyball and softball, are scheduled, and an old-fashioned gospel-singing session will conclude the day.

Participants are encouraged to bring musical instruments, have musical selections (vocal or instrumental) prepared, and be dressed in turn-of-the-century attire, the Rev. Don Jones, host pastor, said.

Wehrli named Eden president

Dr. Eugene Wehrli, Evangelical Professor of Biblical Interpretation and Dean for Academic Life, was named president of Eden Theological Seminary at a special meeting of the board of directors Aug. 27. Wehrli, who has been interim president since August 1986, will be the 11th president of the seminary.

Wehrli's teaching career began at Cedar Crest College as Instructor of Religion, 1947-48, and continued at Elmhurst College where he was head of the Department of Religion until he came to Eden in 1960.

After completing his A.B. degree, magna cum laude, from Overlin in 1943, Wehrli returned to Eden to obtain his B.D. in 1948. He earned his Ph.D. from the University of Chicago in 1951. He was ordained a minister in the United Church of Christ on Dec. 27, 1947.

Eden Seminary is a closely related seminary of the United Church of Christ. Because of its ecumenical commitments, faculty and students represent a broad spectrum of denominations.

Grace Baptist plans two park concerts

Grace Baptist Church, 2600 Edwards St., will be hosting two park concerts this month. The first will begin at 7 p.m. Thursday, Sept. 10, and the second will take place at 5:30 p.m. Sunday, Sept. 13. Both will be at Wilson Park.

The concert Sept. 10 will be "light-hearted and humorous," a church spokesman said. Included in the festivities will be country and western music, comedy, ventriloquism, impressions of pop and country music stars, and a finale of gospel music.

The second program, Sept. 13, will feature The Impressions, a gospel group from Paducah, Ky. Dr. Bob Jones, pastor of Grace Baptist, said that of all the musical groups the church has hosted during its 30 years The Impressions continues to be the favorite.

Also included in the program will be musical numbers performed by individuals and groups from within the church. The concerts are free and open to the public.

Both concerts will take place by the Wilson Park rose garden, across from 27th Street and Delmar Avenue. Guests are encouraged to bring lawn chairs, as seating is limited.

Psalms 20:7... "Some trust in chariots, and some in horses; but we will remember the name of the Lord our God."

We will remember the name of the Lord our God. And why not? God has highly exalted Christ our Savior, and given him a name that is above every name. That at the name of Jesus every knee would bow and every tongue would confess that He is Lord, the glory of God.

There is power and authority in the name of Jesus. Christ said believers could, in his name, speak with new tongues, and cast out evils. He told us to ask anything in his name and he would do it.

With promises like these, from the Word of God, surely we will have no problem remembering the name of the Lord.

Will you remember Today.

Q. In determining my personal net worth, what assets should be included? Should I list my Individual Retirement Account and company pension fund?

A. Yes, your IRA and other pensions funds should be included in the asset side of a net worth calculation. Although it's difficult to arrive at a value estimate for pension funds, generally the lump sum payment you would receive if you quit today is the figure used. Other things to include are savings accounts and savings certificates, money lent to others for personal accounts receivable. Remember U. S. Savings Bonds, stocks and bonds at current values or quotations. Determine the current market value of your house and other real estate property. List household furnishings (a rule of thumb is to estimate value of furnishings and appliances at 5% of the value of your house). Include appraised jewelry, art and antiques and the resale value of your car. And, don't forget the cash value of your permanent life insurance policies.

Bernadine Hayes

Hayes

Bernadine Hayes, a Madisionian who became well known as a motion picture and stage actress, died Saturday, Aug. 29, 1987, in her sleep at her home in Los Angeles, where she had resided since 1929.

She was born in Madison and graduated from Madison High School. Her parents were the late Mr. and Mrs. Benjamin Franklin (Deila) Hayes. The family lived in the 1000 block of Fourth Street and her father worked at the American Steel Foundries in Granite City.

Her survivors include a daughter, Madrene, and grandchildren in California. There are many cousins in this area, including Bill Burns, retired owner-operator of a Granite City cafeteria.

A dancer and singer as well as featured actress, Miss Hayes appeared in many lavish musicals on Broadway and in Hollywood, where she performed with such stars as Clark Gable and Norma Shearer.

In the film "Idiot's Delight," she performed a dance sequence as Gable's partner. The number was included in a 1975 movie, "That's Entertainment," consisting of excerpts from musicals.

She recalled being captivated by show business as a child of 10. She liked to visit the former Madison Theater on Third Street near Madison Avenue. Films were shown and, once a week, a stock company presented a live play; she was selected for a role in "Ten Nights in a Barroom."

She later was chosen for the dance chorus at Loew's State Theater, St. Louis, where she sang one night in the absence of the star, blues singer Mable Hollis. She then sang with the Arcadia Band at the Arcadia Ballroom, Grand and Olive, and became a staff singer at KMOX radio. Representing KMOX at an event in Chicago, she was hired by the CBS-affiliated station there and had her own 15-minute daily program.

Winning a beauty and talent contest among Chicago radio singers, she was given a trip to New York City and snared a part in a play, "Mother Sings." After drawing praise from critics for her roles in Ziegfeld and other shows, she was offered a screen test by MGM Studios in Hollywood and was signed to a seven-year contract.

A charter member of the Screen Actors Guild, she also acted at the Pasadena Playhouse. She played in the "Thin Man" films and in Hopalong Cassidy movies as well as an early television series, "I Am the Law" with George Raft. She appeared in the play, "Goodnight Ladies," for three and a half years in Chicago and toured with it in Australia.

Miss Hayes was buried Wednesday in Los Angeles following funeral services conducted at 10 a.m. yesterday at St. Jerome Church, Los Angeles.

Other survivors include three sons, Gerald Mueller, Edwardsville, Richard Mueller, Mitchell, and James Mueller, Troy, Ill.; three sisters, Mrs. Harold (Ruth) Straube, Marine, Mrs. George (Evelyn) Key, Edwardsville, and Mrs. Mildred Mueller, Glen Carbon; seven grandchildren and two great-grandchildren.

Visitation took place Wednesday at Thomas Memorial Mortuary, 2205 Pontoon Road. The Rev. Allen Reiter officiated at 10 a.m. services today at St. John United Church of Christ, 2001 Nameoki Road. Burial was at Sunset Hill Cemetery, Edwardsville. Memorials are requested for St. John UCC.

ite City, died at 8:10 a.m. Tuesday, Sept. 1, 1987, at St. Luke's West Hospital, St. Louis County. She was hospitalized for 12 hours.

She was born in Granite City and lived here until moving to Collinsville eight years ago. Mrs. Mueller was a member of St. John United Church of Christ, Granite City.

She and her husband, Herbert Mueller, who survives, were married Jan. 17, 1942, in St. Louis.

Other survivors include three sons, Gerald Mueller, Edwardsville, Richard Mueller, Mitchell, and James Mueller, Troy, Ill.; three sisters, Mrs. Harold (Ruth) Straube, Marine, Mrs. George (Evelyn) Key, Edwardsville, and Mrs. Mildred Mueller, Glen Carbon; seven grandchildren and two great-grandchildren.

James Williams

Williams

James H. Williams, 66, of 520 English Place, Mitchell, Ill. for 12 years, died at his home at 8:15 a.m. Wednesday, Sept. 2, 1987. He was a Hospice patient.

He was born in Poplar Bluff, Mo., and resided in the Quad City area for 50 years. Mr. Williams owned and operated the Mitchell Tavern for 35 years.

Mr. Williams was of the Catholic faith.

He and his wife, the former Rose Della, who survives, were married May 9, 1940, in St. Louis.

of my wife's car before I could take my kid to school this morning," he said while wiping his hand across the windshield of his car. "Look at this!" His hand was covered with gray dust.

"I've got two kids and I'm going to get them out of here," Forsys said, standing next to a "For Sale" sign in his front yard.

Forsys said he thought the metallic dust came from Granite City Steel.

Company spokesman Ben Johannpeter said, "A study was made two or three years ago and at that time no one was able to pinpoint the origin of the kish."

Johannpeter said because of the nature of the airborne dust, it is virtually impossible to find its origin.

Ben Johannpeter, district air pollution engineer for the Illinois Environmental Protection Agency, said kish is the dust-like, graphite-by-product of molten iron.

The exact origin of the kish is impudic to trace because in addition to the blast furnaces and steel plant of Granite City (Steel) there are two companies that process slag, which also contains the graphite material," Benbenek said.

"The kish is not considered a health problem because the particles are so large," he said. "Kish is considered a nuisance material."

"I've lived in this city for 33 years and at this house for 10 ... and probably already got five to 10 years knocked off of my life," Forsys said.

"I've thought about contacting a friend of mine who is a lawyer and seeing about a class-action suit," he said, "I'm not looking for money. I'm looking for clean air to breathe."

He brushed some of the dust on the trunk of his car into a small pile.

"This can't be within the standards for clean air," Forsys said. "Everything that is dirty is associated with us, whether it may or may not be," Johannpeter said.

"Every time we find anything we're contributing to, we try to take the appropriate steps to rectify the matter," he said. "Forsys is taking steps, too. I'm getting out of here."

Owner of complex may face fines

are instructed not to turn water, gas or electricity on at an apartment house until a new tenant has not applied for an occupancy permit. Schulze said the utilities are not on at five unoccupied apartments.

Three of the apartments are occupied, Schulze said. He said they were occupied before the city's occupancy ordinance was passed in March.

City Attorney Mark Goldenberg said the city may cite White for violating a section of the zoning ordinance that calls for new buildings to be in compliance with city building codes. He said the ordinance calls for fines of $25 to $500 a day. The city would issue a citation and would defend it in court if such action was necessary, Goldenberg said.

"If we cannot get Rocky White's attention any other way, we can't ignore it," Goldenberg said of possible citations.

In a July Press-Record article, Schulze said he had not approved the apartment complex because promised drainage plans had never been submitted by White and the building did not conform to approved construction drawings.

Residents of the area have also complained to the City Council about parking and other problems associated with the building.

White began renting the apartments at the end of January, though the city reportedly had not provided an occupancy permit.

Hopkins said he was aware of the problems before the apartments were rented and had originally intended to seek immediate enforcement. But he said he changed his mind because he was not sure the city could legally keep White from renting the apartments.

Hopkins could not be reached Wednesday for comment about the letter. But in his letter, dated Aug. 21, Hopkins said White had not responded to a request from Schulze on Aug. 13 to submit drainage plans.

In a letter from White to Hopkins dated Aug. 26, White said he was enclosing a drainage plan for the building.

On Wednesday, Schulze said no drainage plan had been submitted.

White also said threats by the city of legal action are "intolerable" and directed Hopkins to send all potential legal questions to White's attorney.

White called the city's stand "harassment and threats without direction."

Phone tax freed for schools

The state announced it will make an advanced school aid payment to the 988 Illinois school districts, based on a ruling by the Illinois Supreme Court.

"I want to express gratitude to the Supreme Court for acting in time to assist districts preparing for the 1987-88 school year," Gov. Jim Thompson said. "I'm glad we could help all of the state's public schools and carry through on our commitment."

"With this action, I have now completed every promise I made to the Chicago Board of Education to settle a strike two years ago," he said. "My end of the bargain has been fulfilled."

Thompson's actions put an additional $147 million in the treasuries of school districts across the state earlier than they normally would have received it.

The advanced payment plus the regular state aid payment for August will bring the total general aid disbursements to the districts to $294 million for the month.

Because of the state's tight fiscal condition, the advanced payment was dependent on the status of revenues collected from the Messages Tax on interstate telephone calls but held in escrow due to a challenge to the constitutionality of the tax.

"In June, the Supreme Court upheld the tax, but an appeal prevented the state from having access to the revenues being collected," Thompson said.

"As an alternative, I signed a new law permitting the treasurer to transfer money from the Protest Fund to the General Revenue Fund with the court's permission," he said. "In the event that the state loses the appeal, the law mandates that all money taken from the Protest Fund be returned.

"Now that the final hurdle has been cleared, I have directed the treasurer and the comptroller to transfer the necessary funds from the General Revenue Fund to the Common School Fund to permit the advanced payment," he said.

The court order authorizes immediate transfer of $118 million paid into the Protest Fund as of June 30 by the three largest telephone companies challenging the Messages Tax.

In addition, the order directs revenues from the three companies (AT&T, Illinois Bell and MCI Telecommunications Corp.) to continue to be paid to the Protest Fund and transferred to the GRF.

Programs offered at GCC

Free public programs on Indians, mussels, music and Madison County politics will provide learning sessions at the Granite City Campus of Belleville Area College this fall.

The sessions will be held in Room L-400, at 4950 Maryville Road. The public is invited.

"Learning doesn't have to be confined to the traditional classroom setting," said Mary Ruth Herzon, chairman of the campus committee that organized the series.

"We have tagged this program our 'Detour Series' because it provides to both students and community residents an alternative to the classroom learning experience," said Dean of Students Valerie L. Thaxton.

The schedule includes:

Sept. 27, 11 a.m.-noon Joe Bruchac.

An Algonquian Indian, Bruchac is a nationally noted storyteller whose work has been published in more than 400 magazines. He is founder and co-editor of the widely known literary magazine, "The Greenfield Review."

Oct. 6, 9 a.m.-11 a.m. AIDS Prevention.

The Madison County AIDS Prevention Program, a division of Co-ordinated Youth Services in Granite City, will present this program.

Oct. 21, 9 a.m.-10 a.m. Madison County Politics.

Venice Township Supervisor Christ Pashoff will discuss the county's political history.

Nov. 4, 8 a.m. Ken Lubinski. Lubinski, director of the River Science Center in Grafton, will discuss his work. The center researches plant and animal life in the Illinois, Missouri and Mississippi rivers.

For more information on any of the programs, 931-0600 may be called.

SIUE named in EEOC suit by Teters

Barbara Teters, former provost of Southern Illinois University at Edwardsville, has filed a complaint against the school with the federal Equal Employment Opportunity Commission.

University officials said it concerns salaries.

Teters earned $66,660, while her successor, David J. Werner, earns $78,000 per year.

Teters was out of town and could not be reached for comment. The university does not comment on such cases as a matter of policy.

Teters resigned July 1 and is taking a sabbatical for one year. She will be conducting research while assigned to the office of President Earl Lazerson.

The provost is the top academic official at the university and the highest official after the president. Lazerson earns $83,000 per year.

Social Security wants to help disabled

Several years ago, President Reagan signed a proclamation declaring the 1980s as the Decade of Disabled Persons and challenged the nation to increase the economic independence of every disabled American.

At Social Security, we want to provide the incentives and the assistance to enable disabled persons to return to the workforce and realize their full potential in our society.

For the disabled, Social Security does more than just pay monthly benefits. It also provides incentives and assistance for those who want to return to work.

Both disability programs administered by the Social Security Administration — disability insurance and supplemental security income (SSI) — contain a number of provisions to help disabled persons who seek economic independence return to the workforce. They include:

Trial Work Period — Disabled beneficiaries generally can test their ability to work for up to nine months while remaining eligible for monthly payments.

At the end of nine months, Social Security evaluates whether the individual demonstrated an ability to remain gainfully employed. If the work is judged "substantial gainful activity," payments are stopped after a three-month adjustment period.

Impairment-Related Work Expenses — The cost of certain items and services that a disabled worker needs in order to work can be excluded from consideration in determining whether a person's work is substantial gainful activity.

The cost of medical devices and equipment, certain attendant care services, prostheses, and similar items and services can be excluded in determining a worker's continuing eligibility for payments.

Extended Period of Eligibility — Disabled beneficiaries who attempt to return to the workforce also have "special protection" under an extended period of eligibility.

If forced to stop working within 15 months after the end of the trial work period, beneficiaries may have their payments restarted without filing a new application and undergoing another medical determination.

Harmonic convergence was a bust

By Gene Saffern

Suburban News Service
Congratulations! You have survived "Harmonic Convergence."

Harmonic Convergence Sunday, at Cahokia Mounds and other sites Aug. 16, was triggered by a book by Jose Arguelles, an art historian, titled "The Mayan Factor: Path Beyond Technology." In the book, he explained that on Aug. 16 we would hit a shift point as we neared the end of the Mayan Calendar's Great Cycle.

This means that in 2012 A.D. we will leave a "galactic beam," which the earth and sun entered in 3113 B.C. Got that?

In published reports, Jose has been quoted as saying, "This is a major planetary event of an unprecedented nature. We are responding to some kind of call to gather together."

"The situation on the planet — the environmental deterioration and military buildup — has reached a critical point. If things were to continue on this course, we would be following a course of extinction."

The "interplanetary event" is what astrologers call "a unique pattern that has never occurred before."

Arguelles' credentials include a Ph.D. from the University of Chicago that he earned before he began having visions.

At any rate, thousands of people gathered at what had been designated as places of special significance to experience the vibrations, look for UFO sightings, spot visiting (planetary) aliens (not these from south of the border), meditate on the need for peace, or be a witness to the end of the world, whichever might have occurred that day. There were no guarantees.

If you think this is "totally crackpot," as one academic put it, please note that a great number of people swarmed over Monk's Mound near Collinsville Road and many other places around the world at sunrise to witness whatever convergence was going to converge.

Since nothing cataclysmic happened, one would think the believers would become non-believers by dawn's early light. Although I've had no firm reports on the results of the non-catastrophe, I doubt if this had any effect on the participants, what I'm saying is that whatever they thought before is what they think now.

I personally know a couple of believers in the occult. Though I haven't had the opportunity to check this out with them, I would be truly amazed if this little lapse in a cosmic event did very much to change their basic attitudes.

The people I have in mind are not your run-of-the-mill know-nothings; these are bright people to the point of brilliance with this strange belief in the supernatural. They are also intellectual snobs in that they really think that "all intelligent people believe in ghosts." No amount of talk to the contrary can change their minds.

Barry Karr, a member of the Committee for the Scientific Investigation of Claims of the Paranormal, told USA Today: "The notion of Harmonic Convergence is a beautiful idea, the joining together of multitudes of people, all concentrating on the very noble desire for peace and harmony. On another level, it can be quite disturbing when you realize these people have given up on the real world."

"They are turning their backs on scientific and technological progress to help find the solution to the problems facing the world. Instead, they are merely wishing these problems away by looking for some universal energy force — or enlightened beings from outer space — to make the world a better place to live."

Hewlett good choice for job

Former 4th Ward Alderman Tom Hewlett is a good choice for the City Plan Commission.

Hewlett demonstrated his interest in this community's welfare before he entered politics as an alderman in December 1985. He helped lead a delegation of 4th Ward residents who tried to block the proposed Aldi's development at the Fehling Road curve. Though it wasn't stopped, he showed an impressive ability to understand and deal with not only the emotional implications of the homeowners who were concerned about their property values, but with the city's need for jobs and tax revenue.

Hewlett's background as an alderman can only be helpful. From experience, he knows the thinking of the aldermen with whom he's served, he has dealt with Plan Commission decisions, and he knows what to expect from our vocal citizens.

Hewlett is one of the promising, young leaders of our community. By continually listening to the people and holding their welfare above all other considerations, Hewlett's political star will continue to rise.

United drive benefits all

Our cool nights indicate autumn is approaching, and another sure sign is the preparation going on for the annual United Cities Area United Way campaign.

The kickoff breakfast is set for next Thursday, Sept. 10, at the Granite City Township Building.

Darryl W. Slater is the general chairman of the 1987 drive, which will help finance the 1988 activities of 12 member agencies — the Alcoholic Rehabilitation Community Home, American Red Cross, Boy Scouts, Catholic Charities, Children's Home & Aid Society, Coordinated Youth Services, Girl Scouts, Protestant Welfare Association, Salvation Army, Urban League, Visiting Nurse Association and YMCA.

The campaign also benefits APL/CIO Community Services, the Association for Retarded Citizens, Big Brothers/Big Sisters, the Rape & Sexual Abuse Care Center, the Senior Aides Program and, new this year, Mobile Meals, the Phoenix Crisis Center and Piassa Health Care.

The American Heart Association will participate with United Way in the business and industry portions of the campaign.

The successful drive a year ago raised $702,999 and studies indicate an even greater amount is needed in the new campaign, set for September and October. Since present accounts do not meet the required total, "new dollars" as well as continuing gifts will be sought.

In the next few weeks, 100,000 volunteers will kick off United campaigns in communities across Illinois, seeking more than $130 million to support 1,100 human service agencies. Similar efforts will be in progress in all 50 states.

It's a big undertaking, but one well worth it. As is apparent from the list of local agencies, the programs make a vast, positive difference in the lives of those who live, work and shop in this community.

It has been said that "when we give, we live our deepest truth, loving our neighbor as ourselves." And that neighbor often turns out to be a friend, a loved one, or

Population and income up

Three-fourths of the counties in Illinois have smaller populations now than in the 1980 census. But Metro East is gaining in residents, and Madison County has had a bigger gain than St. Clair County; this county is up 1 percent from 247,664 to 250,200.

Illinois itself has grown from 11,427,429 in the last census to an estimated 11,533,000. The national total also has increased and, happily, 700,000 fewer Americans are living in poverty (32.4 million instead of 33.1 million). The poverty threshold for a family of four in 1986 was $11,203.

Census Bureau statistics show median family income increased by 4.8 percent between 1985 and 1986 after adjustment for inflation.

It was one of the biggest annual increases in the past 15 years and the fourth consecutive year that real income has increased. And family income was spread over fewer people, due to changes in divorce, separation, out-of-wedlock child bearing and fertility rates.

Unfortunately, rich still tend to get richer while poor people become poorer. The share of income received by the bottom fifth of the population has changed from 4.1 percent in both 1970 and 1980 to 3.8 percent in 1987. The middle three-fifths decreased from 52.7 to 51.8 to 50.2 percent, while the fifth with highest incomes increased from 43.3 to 44.2 and then 46.1 percent.

State lotteries doing well

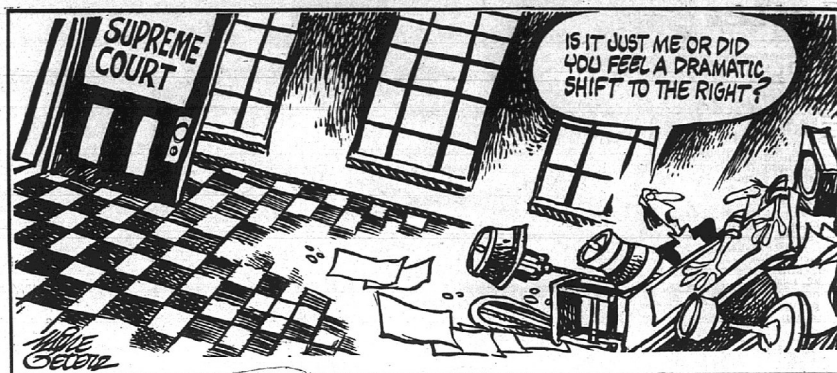

Missouri is getting a foot in the door with its state lottery, but — as expected — is encountering stiff competition from the older, widely imitated Illinois lottery.

With $1.3 billion in yearly receipts, the Illinois lottery had a 42 percent profit margin, exceeded only by Maryland (45.1 percent), New York (44.9 percent) and Connecticut (44.6 percent). Newcomer California, largest in population, led in gross receipts with $1.8 billion. Illinois' net of $540,000 was the third highest among the 23 participating states.

In the national survey for fiscal 1986, Missouri was active for six months, netting $81 million on receipts of $209 million.

Both Illinois and Missouri wisely are going slow in regard to joining multi-state lottery proposals. Already eligible to win millions of dollars, residents of Metro East and the St. Louis area really don't need a $100 million jackpot, do they?

Letters

Illinois Power doesn't deserve rate increases

To the editor:

The following is in response to a letter by L.R. Daine, Illinois Power Co., written to the Press-Record. You (Daine) are claiming the article essentially attacks Ill. Power. They need to be attacked because of these very latest series of ever increasing rates, charged to the poor people who have no other choice but to purchase their electricity from Ill. Power.

It was very nice of your company to furnish you with all those enlightening figures and percentages to put in your letter. Why didn't you mention the millions of dollars wasted in the building of the new plant at Clinton and the millions of dollars of cost overruns in the construction?

I have a cousin who worked on the job until he retired three years ago. He told me men who never came near the job to actually work; someone else rang them in each day, and yet they received a huge paycheck each week.

He told me men who worked an hour a day but got paid eight hours and sometimes overtime to do nothing.

Where were the representatives of Illinois Power who were supposed to be checking on this type of waste which went on year after year and no one cared? They weren't having to pay for it because they had been handed a blank check by the Illinois Commerce Commission. To heck with the people who were going to eventually have to pay for this fiasco!

You seem to think we should feel sympathy for the poor stockholders. Out in the work-a-day world that I live in, if a company is in business and can't pay the bills they go broke and go out of business. Not the utilities! They can mismanage and keep on spending money they don't have, do their own strange kind of cost accounting and run to the ICC for rate increases.

In all fairness, since Ill. Power is the only utility available, and we are a captive audience, this should be changed to a non-profit business. Since the rates have become so excessive it's time to change the concept completely.

Give the stockholders their money back and start over as a non-profit utility. One of the first things I would change, you would not be allowed to spend money for advertising. It is not necessary since you have no competition. If that is not a workable concept then allow a second utility to be formed to give some competition.

My sympathy is with someone like my mother and mother-in-law whose sole income is Social Security of approximately $500 per month.

They've seen their electric bills go from $40 to $170 per month, which doesn't leave much left over for the necessities of life like rent and food. Why should I feel sorry for the stockholders?

You mention in your letter three factors we would like to address.

Ill. Power's equipment is getting older and will have to be replaced. In this same world out here I was describing, that is all part of business and a legitimate expense, but out here you have to manage carefully so there is some profit to buy that new equipment. If you can't handle the profit or there is no profit, you go out of business and let someone with better business acumen keep on going; you can't run back to the ICC and say you need more money.

The second factor is, you say there will be a need for more electricity in the future. Just this summer, which has been unusually hot, these two ladies I spoke of couldn't have their air conditioners on all the time when it was really needed because they couldn't pay for it.

There will be more and more people who can't pay their bills because of the outrageous rates. Eventually you won't need all this extra electricity because no one can pay for it. You will have worked out your own solution and extra electricity won't be needed because no one can afford it.

You state so proudly that the customers have not had to pay any of the cost for labor and material at Clinton, just the interest. In this everyday world out here that I keep trying to get you back to, we shouldn't even have to pay the millions of dollars in interest.

If Illinois Power were being run and managed like any other business you wouldn't attempt to do anything so expensive with cost overruns as Clinton unless the profits of the business could be used to pay for it. In the everyday world there is no ICC where we can run back to and appeal for rate increases.

The commercials on TV stating you don't want the summer rate increase and you're appealing to have it cut back are very offensive. You don't give the customer credit to have enough intelligence to know it will only be added to the winter rate. You should stop those immediately because they are doing more harm than good.

You seem to think the Press-Record is not living up to their stated purpose of dedication to the public holding its welfare in highest regard. I say give the Press-Record a hand; they are coming out in favor of the public's interest instead of monopolies. Go, Press-Record!

Bork will not rewrite laws

The nomination of Judge Bob Bork has not even been considered by the Senate Judiciary Committee and already that committee's chairman has made up his mind.

Sen. Joe Biden will vote no — and he is holding meetings with fellow Democrats to try to convince them to vote no.

And on his Judiciary Committee, Democrats outnumber Republicans 6-6.

Can these partisans keep Bork off the Supreme Court merely because his preponderantly conservative philosophy does not agree with their preponderantly liberal philosophy? They can.

The Senate has rejected 11 Supreme Court nominees and blocked action on 15 others during the past 200 years. And Democrats control the Senate 54 to 46.

The nomination need never get to the Senate floor.

Biden and his committee can conceivably stall confirmation into next year, when they would gamble that a Democrat in the White House would nominate a jurist more to their liking.

Republican administrations historically have been able to count on help from "Southern Democrats" or the years have been displaced by Southern Republicans, some by liberal Democrats.

It is entirely logical and understandable that liberals in the Senate are trying to stall and, if they can, sidetrack the Bork appointment.

Liberal politicians are going to fight the trend toward a strict constructionist judiciary. And it's going to be a far fiercer fight than greeted any of the president's earlier appointments — because this one "tips the balance."

And on such basic issues as affirmative action, racial quotas, abortion, religion, sex and homosexuality, capital punishment, libel and even one-man-one-vote.

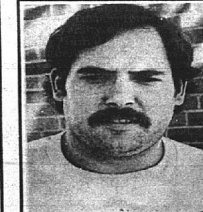

In essence, Bork believes the Constitution is to be "interpreted" by the high court, not "rewritten," as has been recent practice.

President Reagan has brought marketplace economics back into balance. With the pivotal Bork appointment he hopes to do the same thing for jurisprudence.

Did ICC serve the public's interest?

What is your reaction to the Illinois Commerce Commission's decision to turn down an Illinois Power request to lower summer electric rates and raise winter rates, with the power company's intent to give rebates to its customers if the request was granted? Do you think the company will give the rebates to its customers despite the commission's decision?

David Morlen,

Long trial reflects Monsanto wealth

To the editor:

I am a native of Granite City, which is located close to the City of Belleville, where the Dioxin trial is being held.

Reading about the length of the trial has all along made me very angry. I think it is devastating to the record of the Illinois court system.

I resented an article in the Post-Dispatch comparing the trial to World War II. They also wrote, "The case has been one of bizarre proportions, large and small, since the trial started Feb. 22, 1984."

Monsanto Chemical Co. has been accused of lengthening this trial to win. They can, of course, afford to do this.

In the World Book Encyclopedia, there is a listing of the 10 leading U.S. chemical companies. Monsanto is listed 6th.

This listing was taken from "The Fortune Directory" of the 500 largest industry corporations. The date of this listing is September 1980. That was 27 years ago.

No wonder Monsanto can spend millions of dollars fighting in a courtroom. For the 27 years, they had made an enormous amount of money selling chemicals.

I have (unrelated) Dioxin-contaminated property here in Missouri. It has been closed down for public safety for five years. I have received no compensation for this business loss.

I am not in any lawsuit against Monsanto. My thoughts today are only on the problems we, Dioxin victims, are having to accept. It is a very hard row to hoe, believe me.

I hope the Illinois courts are soon freed from this unnecessary evil of having a record for the longest jury trial in the U.S. It is shameful what money can buy.

Many towns, homes and businesses (in unrelated cases) are contaminated with Dioxin. Dioxin carries a big stick.

I have to ask myself this question: "Has Dioxin now contaminated the courts of Illinois?"

Confirm Bork without delay

To the editor:

Two centuries of experience have proven, time and again, that the promise of our Constitution is only as meaningful as the conscience and intelligence of those who interpret it as members of the United States Supreme Court.

President Reagan has discharged his responsibility with pre-eminence in the nomination of Judge Robert H. Bork as an associate justice.

As the Senate begins its solemn constitutional duty of advice and consent, it is important to focus on precisely what the confirmation process should — and should not — entail.

The principal inquiry at this fall's Senate proceeding should concentrate on the qualifications and credentials of Bork to serve on the Court.

On the surface, that should be an easy task. He has had a distinguished career as a lawyer, an academician, an officer of the executive branch and a judge on the United States Court of Appeals for the District of Columbia Circuit.

His legal scholarship has engendered fresh thought in the academic community; his forceful advocacy as solicitor general — the government's lawyer before the Supreme Court — has had a meaningful impact on the Court's deliberation; his judicial opinions have been delivered with such creative force that they have greatly influenced the development of the law.

Beneath the surface of a scholar beats the heart of a lawyer. From the august post of solicitor general, Bork did not insulate himself from the daily activities of government lawyers pursuing the fight against crime. He spent many hours communicating with young assistant U.S. attorneys refining legal positions, crafting arguments and developing strategies.

The influence of his enormous legal talent and masterful tech-ing ability was felt throughout the nation.

Bork's career demonstrates that he is an open-minded public servant given to the rule of the law.

The 1969 trial of the "Chicago Conspiracy Seven," held at the height of the Vietnam War, had been a confrontational proceeding that became a symbol of national divisiveness.

At the trial's conclusion, the judge imposed contempt sanctions against the defendants and their lawyers for outrageous courtroom misconduct.

Four years later, after the contempt convictions were reversed on appeal and remanded for a new trial, some in the Justice Department wanted to drop the prosecution in order to avoid opening old wounds on the body politic.

Although inclined to heed the department's recommendation, Bork, then acting attorney general, was persuaded that the contempt case should proceed in order to convey the message that no one, regardless of ideology or station of life, should be allowed to thwart the orderly process of our judicial system.

The ensuing contempt convictions were hailed by the media as a "victory for the law." In so doing, Bork demonstrated a capacity absolutely vital to the Court — the ability to listen with an open mind before deciding.

When it considers the nomination of Bork, the Senate will have before it a distinguished scholar, a consummate lawyer, a worthy judge, a man of patriotism, openmindedness, personal fortitude and reverence for the rule of law.

Given his impeccable credentials, the controversial question that the Senate must consider is whether Bork's ideology is a factor to be considered in the confirmation process.

There is respectable weight to the contention that philosophical views should not be injected into the process of reviewing an otherwise highly qualified nominee.

It is unseemly to require judicial candidates to take an oath of allegiance on a particular litmus test issue.

However, in a democracy, substantial importance should be attached to the constitutional philosophy of a judicial nominee.

Extremism on either side of the political spectrum has no place on a Court that must resolve most profound legal issues confronting the nation.

To the extent that it conducts a vigorous review of Bork's ideology, the Senate will come away with the impression of a fairminded jurist whose profound intellect seeks to interpret the law with deference to the principles upon which this nation was founded.

His constitutional philosophy is tempered by an abiding sense of caution and pragmatism.

Those who claim he is an ultraconservative extremist who will tilt the Court's philosophical bent suffer the tyranny of labels and warp the record of achievement.

He is too much of a lawyer, too much of a scholar and too much of a realist to retrench from the important strides that the Court has made in protecting individual liberties and human rights. He will be a faithful guardian of the Constitution.

In nominating Bork to the Court, the President has identified an individual who possesses those extraordinary characteristics. To assure that we are selecting the best among us to sit in judgment upon us, a speedy confirmation by the Senate is in order.

Asks more buses for young pupils

To the editor:

I am just one of many who live a mile and over from an elementary school. To my amazement, there are no buses for elementary children.

Why is it Headstart has a bus, Coolidge Junior High has a bus, which is only one-half to a block from Niedringhaus, and Granite City High School, which is only a quarter of a block away, all have buses, but the elementary school does not?

I see a lot of junior high and high school children walk in the mornings, even though they have a bus to ride. But the elementary children have no choice.

I walked the distance myself to register my children and it was very hard for me, so it must be dreadful for a first to sixth grader.

The Granite City School District 9, instead of worrying about more money for salaries and such, should have more consideration for the children of this city.

I wonder if the teachers or members of the board had to walk the distance our children have to walk everyday. Just how many would be absent from work?

Please, Board of Education, have a heart. Think of the children you are trying to teach. Give the children buses.

Granite City-Alton 142nd best place to live in U.S.

(Comment by Dennis McMurray, Springfield correspondent for the Alton Telegraph.)
SPRINGFIELD — Lists of the "best places" or "safest places" to live always seem to attract a lot of interest but don't really mean too much.
The ranking of the "Alton-Granite City" area as the 142nd best out of 300 places to live in the U.S. in the most recent such exercise by "Money" magazine is an example.

These ratings purport to have some objectivity, because standardized data, gleaned from census reports and other sources, are fed through a computer.

The weighting given various "amenities" that supposedly make an area a good place to live can significantly skew the results, however.

For example, the Alton-Granite City area had a much better showing in the 1985 Rand McNally "Places Rated Almanac," notching 85th out of 329, better than any Illinois metro area except Chicago.

In fact, most places had radically different rankings between the Rand McNally and "Money" lists. The one glaring exception was Illinois' second largest city, Rockford.

That poor, economically-depressed Swedish-Italian city in the northern part of the state ended up near the very bottom in both lists.

Compared to Rockford, Alton-Granite City does pretty well. In fact, by falling right in the middle of the "Money" ratings, it earned anonymity.

Don't rush out and buy the August issue of "Money" and expect to see anything in it about Alton-Granite City. Curiously, the article only lists the top 100 and the bottom 10 (and I'm out $2.95).

Greater Alton-Twin Rivers Growth Association President Jim Pennekamp, formerly executive vice president of the Tri-Cities Area Chamber of Commerce, noted the subjective nature of such "places" ratings, recalling an article he had read about the Rand McNally one.

It was an interview with a man who had recently moved from the "best" area to the "worst," but insisted his new quality-of-life was much better regardless of what the computer printout said.

Worked at Clinton, saw funds wasted

To the editor:

The following is in response to Illinois' Power's letter that appeared on Aug. 25.

The letter stated that not one cent of customers' money was spent for construction to build the Clinton power house — only the interest charges on "money borrowed."

I wonder what the interest is on billions of dollars and how long must we pay? If it's anything like my mortgage payment, then IP has got us right where they want us.

I also do not care about the stockholders IP claims have seen a 38 percent loss on their investment over the last 20 years. That is clearly IP's fault because of the mismanagement of the construction project at Clinton.

Why should we pay for the poorly managed construction project at Clinton? As IP says, "It's no secret that recent increases have resulted from interest on money borrowed to construct Clinton."

This project was so poorly managed that hundreds of construction workers installed work and then took the same work out every day, for years.

As drawings were changed, because of government standards and earthquake protection, hundreds of workers just continued to put work in what IP knew was going to be changed eventually.

At this same time, the work was being inspected and approved by dozens of paid inspectors, only to be torn out at a later date.

This not only created a much longer and more expensive job, it broke down the morale of the workers and was just plain stupid. Why should we pay for this stupidity?

Would you pay a contractor to come to your home and build a room and then tear it down hundreds of times? No!

Why should we pay IP's interest on money borrowed for a project which was, in my opinion, on a definite plot against the consumer? If this wasn't a plan to increase the cost of Clinton, then IP is managed by idiots. I don't think so. They are dumb like foxes.

I believe that Clinton was necessary due to the increased need for power during peak periods. But when a project has cost overruns of the magnitude that Clinton had, something is definitely wrong.

I worked on this project as an electrician for a long time and I saw what was going on. Raising winter rates and lowering summer rates is no solution to "highway robbery." This is just a smoke screen.

I agree with the newspaper's statement of purpose as being dedicated to the public. Illinois Power's statement of purpose should read, "We are dedicated to ourselves and to the almighty dollar."

Health care bill deceptive, harmful

To the editor:

Less than two years ago, President Reagan announced his top domestic priority legislation to help protect Medicare beneficiaries from catastrophic medical expenses. Congress' first attempt at enacting catastrophic health care insurance, however, offers only misguided, catastrophic results.

The House of Representatives recently and speedily approved H.R. 2470, the Medicare Catastrophic Protection Act of 1987. At first glance, the bill provides substantial benefits to those seniors covered by Medicare.

Nearly every senior citizen advocacy group endorsed its passage. Unfortunately, neither the title of this legislation, nor the advocacy groups supporting it, have been completely accurate in presenting all of the facts.

The points advertised show this bill as offering many benefits to seniors and represents, by far, the broadest expansion of the $80 billion per year Medicare program since its inception in 1965.

The bill limits out-of-pocket costs for current Medicare services to $1,000 in 1988, but it also expands existing coverage.

The bill covers 80 percent of beneficiaries' outpatient prescription drug costs above the first $500 and covers up to 80 hours per year of "respite care" for those who care for home-bound Medicare patients.

This measure also grants substantial relief to beneficiaries with low incomes by requiring states to pay Medicare-required charges for those with incomes below the poverty line.

It seeks to prevent "spousal impoverishment" by increasing the allowance granted to one spouse when the Medicaid program is paying for the other spouse's nursing home care.

The facts of this catastrophic health care bill that have not been advertised, however, offer a cruel and unexpected surprise to many seniors. They will be forced to pay for the benefits and will later find that Medicare will not, in fact, pay for the most catastrophic of medical expenses.

Most notably, the House-approved bill fails to address the primary health policy issue of long-term care.

Seniors who face the true catastrophic health care expenses of extended, custodial nursing home care will not find a dime of benefits in the House-passed bill.

The definition of "catastrophic" has become synonymous with Medicare acute-care expansion. What began as addressing catastrophic nursing home expenses has turned into a free-for-all benefit expansion, displacing private enterprise with new, more expensive, government largesse.

In the long run, this will result in high costs for seniors, spiraling expenses in future years, and little new substantive coverage for the majority of Medicare beneficiaries.

Even further, the House-passed bill will raid Medicare beneficiaries' pockets.

Some will pay more than six times what they now pay for Medicare Part B coverage. Everyone will be hard-hit by the big $4.50 per month increase in the basic Part-B premium; and seniors with incomes as little as $14,000 will pay a surtax of $380 in 1988, increasing to as much as $3,000 to $4,000 per year by the year 2005.

In the first year alone, many seniors throughout the nation will be forced to pay over $610 in additional Medicare premiums, well above the cost of comparable private health insurance.

Control of non-native plants being revised

A new law amends the Illinois Exotic Weed Act to change current statutes, including controlling the introduction of non-native plants that may cause serious problems to natural communities.

The bill also enables the Department of Conservation to salvage endangered aquatic life.

It sets flat fees for nonresident fishing, hunting and trapping licenses at $15, $45 and $175 respectively, per year and increases the penalty for violating the provisions of this law from a Class B to a Class A misdemeanor.

Seek to boost state defense contracts

WASHINGTON — U.S. Senators Alan Dixon and Paul Simon of Illinois have announced two grants to help Illinois businesses who want to sell to Uncle Sam but don't know how.

Under a two-year-old outreach program, the Department of Defense will provide $150,000 to the Illinois Department of Commerce and Community Affairs and $35,000 to the City Colleges of Chicago for use over the next year in helping Illinois firms prepare competitive proposals so they can win contracts for defense work.

The help will include step-by-step guidance in preparing and submitting bids, lessons in the quality and specifications Pentagon buyers are looking for, clearinghouse information on products on the government's "wish list," and tutoring in accounting procedures.

Both senators have pushed steps to encourage Illinois firms to do more business with the government.

Price votes on nearly all issues

By David Rocks

WASHINGTON — Southwest Illinois' 82-year-old Rep. Melvin Price (D) was present for 97.3 percent of the 299 recorded votes on the House floor so far this year, according to Legi-Slate, a Washington-based firm that tracks legislation and congressional voting records.

Meanwhile, Illinois Democratic senator and presidential candidate Paul Simon voted only 63.25 percent of the time — the third worst attendance record in the Senate, followed only by Sens. Albert Gore Jr. (D-Tenn.) and Joseph Biden (D-Del.), also presidential candidates.

Illinois' other senator, Alan Dixon (D), was present for 97.44 percent of the 252 Senate votes, according to Legi-Slate, which is owned by the Washington Post.

Two nearby Illinois congressmen, Richard Durbin (D), voted 96.31 percent and 96.49 percent of the time, respectively.

The figures are based on attendance for recorded votes, but do not include roll calls and quorum calls, which Legi-Slate does not consider to be substantive.

Mike Mansfield, Price's top aide, said Price considers attendance for floor votes an important part of representing his constituents, and says the figures show the aging Price is still an effective legislator.

It shows that he's active — he's doing his job," Mansfield said. "He's still doing it at 82 going on 83."

Gray explained his relatively low attendance record by the fact that he occasionally misses the daily vote to approve the record of the previous day's proceedings, called the journal. Calling for journal votes has been used by the Republican minority in the House to register disapproval or to stall the day's legislative business.

"I don't worry about procedural matters like approval of yesterday's journal," Gray said. "Journal votes have nothing to do with the legislative business of the House."

Durbin spokesman Steve Blakely said Durbin tries to make all the votes, but that he sometimes misses early votes on Mondays because of difficulties in returning from Illinois.

Durbin sees that being there to vote is one of the top priorities — that's one of the reasons people sent him there," Blakely said. "Obviously, his record shows that."

Among the 435 members of the House, 20 members had perfect attendance records, while four of the 100 senators made every vote. Only 15 representatives and three senators attended less than 80 percent of the votes.

On the low end, presidential candidate Rep. Richard Gephardt (D-Mo.) voted only 27.65 percent of the time, while in the Senate presidential hopeful Biden made only 45.73 percent of the votes.

CUB claims GE at fault

By Norma Mendoza

A faulty nuclear reactor could be to blame for much of the cost overrun at Illinois Power's Clinton nuclear plant, according to the Citizens Utility Board.

But Al Adams, a spokesman for Illinois Power in Decatur, said the company is unaware of any problems with the reactor.

An inside report recently made public about problems with the Mark III reactor is CUB's latest ammunition in its battle to oppose a rate increase Illinois Power plans to ask for in the fall.

Adams said the report was made available to the Nuclear Regulatory Commission in 1976. "We were willing to rely on the NRC analysis," Adams said.

Pat Clarkson, a spokeswoman for CUB in Chicago, said the citizens group has asked the Illinois Commerce Commission to investigate the report about the reactor. She said a rate increase request would be another attempt by Illinois Power to pass Clinton costs on to consumers.

Ray Hollmann, CUB director from the 21st Congressional District, wants Illinois Power to "pass the buck" back to General Electric, the company that sold it the reactor. Hollmann is giving out bumper stickers that read, "Hey I.P. Sue G.E., Don't Ask More From Me."

However, Adams said, "I don't think the information in the Reed Report is the cause of major cost increases at Clinton."

"They bought a faulty reactor," Clarkson said. "Overwhelming evidence shows GE knew about the problems with the reactor before they sold it."

Clarkson said Illinois Power had to do extensive redesign at the Clinton plant to accommodate the reactor.

But Adams said as early as 1976 the NRC said any design concerns at Clinton had already been addressed.

Clarkson said the memo known as the Reed Report was prepared by engineers who worked for GE in 1975. Redesign costs are at issue in a lawsuit against GE by American Nuclear Service Corp. on behalf of a unit of the company. Vice President A. Joseph Dowd, chief legal counsel for the company, said the suit is to recover additional costs incurred by the utility in having to redesign the nuclear containment to deal with certain hydrodynamic forces.

Scouting for new members

At one time I was active in the Boy Scouts of America, including service as Uniwah District (Quad City Area) chairman and head of a couple of Cahokia Mound Council committees.

These days, however, I'm still convinced it is an outstanding program for young people (mainly boys, but also girls at the high school level).

One of the most important dates of the new Boy Scouting year, 1987-88, is Thursday, Sept. 17, when School Night for Scouting will be held at area elementary schools. Units are beginning their fall activities and new members will be recruited that night.

The hours will be 7 to 9 p.m. at all neighborhood schools. Depending on their age, boys can sign up to be Tiger Cubs, Cub Scouts or Boy Scouts.

Uniwah packs, troops and posts also are keeping an eye on another date, Sept. 30, kick-off for their annual benefit popcorn sale.

The council's "fall campfire" — emphasizing signals, compasses, measurements, knots, work projects, water volleyball, stunts and skits — is set for Oct. 2, 3 and 4 at the council's outstanding camp property, Camp Sunnen, located near Potosi, Mo. The camp was acquired by the local council through the generosity and efforts of the late Joseph Sunnen and the late Henry D. Karandjeff.

James V. Winkler is the new council executive, succeeding newly retired Bill Monica. Carl Wetzel is president and Ron Luebke is commissioner.

Cahokia Mound Council headquarters are on Delmar Avenue in Granite City, and the major segments of the council are Uniwah, Illini (Collinsville and Edwardsville area) and Kickapoo (Greenville and Highland areas).

Regional Roundup

By Bill Winkler

A "national quality council," Cahokia Mound has 2,668 members aged 6-16 in 91 units, including: 259 Tiger Cubs, 1,587 Cub Scouts in 42 packs, 886 Boy Scouts in 38 troops, and 136 Explorers in 11 posts.

Statistics show the council is serving 20.8 percent of the 13,761 "total available."

Aided by the United Way, sustaining memberships and other sources, the council has a chronic financial problem.

To ease the situation, the council hopes to recruit additional boys, operate on a balanced budget, enroll 976 sustaining members with contributions of $81,909, and increase its trust fund by $100,000.

A Camp Sunnen staff veteran, my son, recalls spending two especially memorable summers at the Philmont national scout ranch in New Mexico, as well as a number of active, enjoyable summers at Sunnen. (That's my segue to the next topic.)

Ever since my son graduated from Illinois College, Jacksonville, I seem to run into many people who attended there, even though it's a relatively small private college.

Word arrived in late August that a construction campaign launched by IC in 1984 has resulted in $9.3 million in gifts.

The just-concluded three-year drive had a goal of $6 million.

Cummings Hall, a dining room addition to the Caine Student Center, has been in use for a year and Baxter Hall has been converted into a computer science and psychology laboratory center, opening this fall. IC's endowment has surpassed $22 million.

Although Illinois College is rightfully proud of this accomplishment, it and most other institutions of higher learning won't ever catch up with Washington University in St. Louis.

Washington's endowment fund ranks in the top three in the nation. Even if tough financial times occur, WU can carry on without a pause. Washington obviously is a great school but, surprisingly, operates regular classes for only 140 days out of 365.

Speaking of universities, a display of the complete Sacco-Vanzetti court record and related documents is in the lobby at the Lovejoy Library of Southern Illinois University at Edwardsville, and will remain there for about two more weeks.

It marks the 60th anniversary of the controversial Aug. 23, 1927, execution in Boston of two alien scientists.

Focus of the exhibit, in six large volumes, is "The Record of the Trial of Nicola Sacco and Bartolomeo Vanzetti in the Courts of Massachusetts and Subsequent Proceedings, 1920-27. It will never be a best-seller, but it's important.

The edition, prepared in 1969, was purchased by Granite City attorney Burton C. Bernard for donation to Lovejoy Library. "It's the record of a notable case. The record is now in 250 libraries in 41 states," Bernard said.

His gift is inscribed in memory of three Madison County lawyers, John G. Mudge and James Parsons Jr. were killed in tragic 1939 traffic accidents and John's brother, Dick H. Mudge Jr., the 1956-64 Madison County state's attorney, died in 1978.

Dixon initiative aids Solidarity

In a letter received by the State Department, Polish leader Lech Walesa has thanked the U.S. Congress for its recent $1 million appropriation earmarked for the Solidarity movement.

U.S. Sen. Alan J. Dixon, D-Ill., was a major co-sponsor of the legislation.

Walesa wrote, "The decision to designate financial assistance for Poland is an expression of the profound and traditional bonds of friendship between our peoples."

"Thank you in the name of millions of people who, in the existence of Solidarity, place hopes for the realization of aspirations for independence, democratic freedoms and just economic order in their fatherland."

On April 10, when he introduced a bill to appropriate $1 million for Solidarity, Dixon said, "If the brave members of Solidarity are willing to risk impoverishment, imprisonment, torture and even death to promote the cause of freedom, surely the U.S. can do no less than to aid them in their struggle."

According to Walesa, the money will be channeled to improve medical care and to obtain medical supplies.

In 1981, the imposition of martial law prevented Solidarity from creating a fund to improve the low level of medical services available in Poland.

State pushes for free trade with Canada

An Illinois-Canada Free Trade Committee to encourage exports within the state for a free trade agreement between the United States and Canada is being formed by Gov. James R. Thompson.

"Canada is Illinois' largest export market. Any improvement most certainly would benefit Illinois," Thompson said. The Free Trade Area would eliminate most of the tariff and non-tariff barriers that restrict trade between Canada and this country.

Shedd Aquarium gets funds for expansion

The Shedd Aquarium Society will receive a $5 million Capital Development Fund grant for the construction of the Marine Mammal Oceanarium, a cold water marine animal pavilion.

The new addition will house several species of whales, seals, penguins, dolphins, sea otters and sea lions. The complex will be on the east side of the 58-year-old aquarium and will contain seating areas, exhibition pools, underwater viewing galleries, a main performance pool, a sea otter exhibit, a penguin exhibit and other self-contained mammal displays.

Equality Day musical honors work by nuns

Gov. James R. Thompson proclaimed Women's Equality Day and invited the public to attend a free performance of the musical "Nunsense" in honor of the celebration. Numbers from the show were performed that day in the Concourse of the State of Illinois Center in Chicago.

"Nunsense" was chosen because nuns were representative of the earliest women's working force, serving as teachers, nurses, social workers and missionaries.

3 booklets to help businesses get start

Three new booklets, designed to assist organizations in developing self-employment training programs, are available from the Department of Commerce and Community Affairs. The booklets are intended to help plan, develop and implement self-employment programs to train entrepreneurs for successful business start-up and survival.

The booklets are "Self-Employment Training Programs: Case Studies," "Organizing Self-Employment Programs" and "Entrepreneurship Education Materials." Copies are available by writing DCCA's Office of Urban Assistance, 620 E. Adams, Fifth Floor, Springfield, IL 62701, or

State to fund DeKalb's plans to expand hall

The state will release $946,500 to begin planning for a $25 million addition to Faraday Hall at Northern Illinois University in DeKalb. The addition will provide instructional and research space for the university's chemistry and physics departments.

The money will come from the state's Capital Development Funds.

Fiesta of dancing, singing to mark Mexico's freedom

The Mexican Honorary Commission of Granite City will celebrate Mexico's independence day with a gala fiesta, beginning at 8 p.m. Saturday, Sept. 12, at the MHC Hall, 1802 Spruce St.

The folkloric dancers will perform La Rapa, Jarabe Zapoteco, Los Machetes, Jarabe Michoacano, Entrale En Ayunos, Los Tarascos, La Botella, El Huasteco and the Mexican Hat Dance under the direction of instructors Karen DeCoursey and Kathy Moore.

Performing will be Carlos Braggs, Martine Braggs, Darlene Bromley, Alma Castillo, Kathy Copeland, Cate DeCoursey, Sara DeCoursey, Karen DeCoursey, Lisa Dooley, Nicholas Garcia, Sara Garcia, Ron Grim, Angela Hogue, Mary Hogue, Amanda Hotz, Dawn Martin, Anna Meyers, Casandra Meyers, Connie Meyers, Della Moore, Kathy Moore, Zella Moore, Jose Pastoriza, Pam Simpson, Kerin

Slayton, Beth Ann Stith, Emily Stith, Amanda Terrazas, Christina Terrazas, Ramona Terrazas, Marian Thomas, Jane Thomas, Andrea Valencia and Jodie Wagner.

Tickets may be purchased at the door for $3.50 for adults or $2.50 for children over 5.

The local fiesta marks in advance the Sept. 16 Mexican celebration of its declaration of independence from Spain. The day is traditionally observed with parades and feasts, pomp and ceremony. Honors are given for the heroes of the independence movement, Miguel Hidalgo y Costilla and Jose Maria Morelos y Pavon, who began the fight for freedom.

On the eve of independence day, the president appears at the Central Balcony of the National Palace and shout out "Grito" or "Long live liberty, long live independence, long live Mexico."

This celebration is comparable in Mexico to the 4th of July in the United States.

Edison plans eclectic season

Washington University's new Edison Theater season includes provocative dance, avant-garde theater, classical and contemporary music.

The season opens Oct. 9 and 10 with the return of the experimental theater group, in a "Prelude to Death in Venice." Mixing ventriloquism, poetry and puns, the award-winning production stars John, a 3-foot dummy manipulated by actor Bill Raymond.

Sankai Juku, the Japanese Butoh dance company, will appear Oct. 23 and 24. Their performances reflect the cycle of birth and death and the conflicting emotions of joy and sadness.

The New York Chamber Soloists will perform Nov. 21. Since 1957, the 10-member soloists have been a creative force in chamber music, developing unusual programs of mixed vocal and instrumental repertoire.

The Guthrie Theater returns to Edison on Jan. 28, 1988, to present playwright Barbara Field's adaptation of Mary Shelley's novel, "Frankenstein."

Eastman Brass, the brass quintet comprising resident faculty at the Eastman School of Music in Rochester, N.Y., will take the stage on Feb. 20. Their repertoire ranges from baroque to German and English music of the late renaissance.

St. Louis Dancers, the company founded by Annelise Mertz, professor of dance at Washington University, will perform March 25 through 27.

Momix, the modern dance company, will appear April 23 and 24. Founded by choreographers Moses Pendleton and Allison Chase, former members of the dance troupe Philobolus, Momix was first presented during the 1980 Winter Olympics.

Ticket prices for the performances are $15 to the general public, $10 for senior citizens and Washington University faculty staff, and $7 for students. Subscriptions rates also are available.

Additional events to be presented in Edison Theater by the Washington University Performing Arts Department include a presentation of Peter Nichols' drama, "The National Health: Nurse Nortons Affair," Nov. 13 and 14; a performance by the Washington University Dance Theater, Dec. 4 and 5; and Peter Schaffer's play "Equus," on April 8, 9 and 16.

Tickets for the Performing Arts Department productions are $5 for the general public, and $4 for senior citizens and Washington University faculty, staff and students. All performances begin at 8 p.m. unless otherwise noted. For more information or to reserve tickets, call the Edison box office at 889-6543.

Health care

Report says women live longer, have more health problems

The failure of Medicare and private health insurance to cover vital medical screenings and early detection procedures may, in many cases, shorten women's lives.

This information is according to a report on "The Picture of Health for Midlife and Older Women in America," released by the Metro East Older Women's League (OWL).

The report analyzes recent data on such things as women's health problems, health care coverage for women and sexism in medical research. The report also notes what it describes as an alarming and dangerous failure of public and private health insurance systems to keep pace with the changing needs of midlife and older women.

A grant from Avon Products Inc. funded the report. Penny Neale, Metro East OWL Chapter president, said: "This report shows conclusively that our nation's health care system is not geared to address the health problems women face as they age. More and more, those problems involve chronic long-term illnesses."

"Our public and private insurance provide little or no coverage for treatment of health problems associated with chronic illness, so women are left to try to cover exorbitant health care costs with very meager resources."

"We are asking policymakers to take note of the inadequacies in our health care system and to take action. An overhaul of our health care system is already overdue. This year, let's give 'em health."

Among the findings in "The Picture of Health" are the following:

"American women live longer today than ever before, but they do not necessarily have longer periods of good health. Women can expect increased and longer periods of chronic health problems, it was shown."

"Cancer is the leading cause of death for midlife women ages 35-54, the second leading cause of death for women ages 55 to 75, and the third leading cause of death for women older than 75 years old."

"Breast cancer is the single leading cause of death among American women. One in every 11 women in the U.S. will develop breast cancer, and four in five cases occur in women older than age 50. Neither Medicare nor most private insurance pays for mammograms to detect breast cancer early, when it is most treatable, the report indicates."

"Each year, 10,000 American women die of uterine cancer. Nearly half of them are older than age 60. Women older than 60 are least likely to have annual Pap smears, or to have ever had this screening. In considerable part, this is because neither Medicare nor most private health insurance will cover the cost, the report said."

"Heart disease is the leading cause of death for women older than 65. Black women are at greater risk than white women, except the very old. Though women have about half the coronary heart disease of men, women who have heart attacks are more likely to die from them than men in nearly every age group."

"Osteoporosis, a condition marked by thinning of the bones, affects nearly half of women older than age 45, and fully nine in 10 women older than 75. It is a leading cause of bone fractures in older women. Research on osteoporosis has been late in getting started and continuously underfunded."

"Alzheimer's Disease accounts for about 75 percent of dementia among the elderly. Its victims are more likely to be female. Alzheimer's also has a very high 'secondary victimization' rate, taking a tremendous toll on family caregivers, most of whom are women."

Since cancer, heart disease, osteoporosis, hypertension, and Alzheimer's can have long-term, chronic effects, "The Picture of Health" notes that treatment often involves high costs over long periods of time. Since women have significantly lower incomes and fewer assets than men, health insurance becomes vital.

According to the report, fewer women than men have group health insurance, and more than 5 million women age 40 to 65 have no health insurance coverage at all.

Poverty increases the chance of being uninsured; as recently as 1984, more than one in three midlife women below the poverty level had no health insurance. Lack of health insurance significantly reduces the amount of health care women purchase, though there is no evidence that the uninsured have fewer medical needs."

"The Picture of Health" found that only 5 percent of the elderly are institutionalized at any given time, although one in five may require nursing home care sometime during their life. Women are the primary users of long-term care because they have more chronic health problems and live longer than men."

In 1985, about $35 billion, or 8 percent of national health care expenditures were spent on nursing home care."

The average cost for one year in a nursing home is approximately $22,000; the average income for a woman over age 65 is $6,313. Personal savings are quickly expended in paying for nursing home care. Most older women cannot pay for their own long-term care and are impoverished if their spouses need such care.

Patients and their families pay more than half of nursing home costs; Medicare pays 42 percent; Medicaid and private insurance together pay about 23 percent.

"The Picture of Health" found evidence of sexism in medical research and physician attitudes. The report notes that researchers often omit women from studies; the Baltimore Longitudinal Study of Aging, the leading long-term research study of the nature and experience of aging in the U.S., has included women for less than a decade."

"OWL members are going to be a force for much-needed change. We are sending cards to our representatives in Washington to let them know how serious these problems are. We are asking members of Congress to vote for: protection against the catastrophic cost of chronic health problems; no more cuts in Medicare and Medicaid; income security for spouses of nursing home patients; and action on the special health needs of women," Neale said.

OWL is a national membership organization, founded in 1980, dedicated to the needs and concerns of midlife and older women.

Members work toward three primary goals: to make public policy more responsive to the needs of midlife and older women, to improve the overall status and image of older women, and to provide mutual support to one another.

There are more than 20,000 members and over 100 chapters of OWL.

OWL chapters seek to provide an organized, active means of teaching OWL's goals, and of enabling midlife and older women to "organize, not agonize" on their own behalf.

Chapters hold workshops on such topics as health care, job and pension equity, financial planning and caregiving.

Members learn how these issues affect their lives and those of women throughout the country. They learn how to advocate for change in an organized and educated manner, and they share the benefits of working successfully on vital projects.

The Metro East chapter meets the second Monday of each month at 1 p.m. at SIUE. All interested persons are welcome to attend the meetings.

The following is a schedule of the meetings:

•Sept. 14 - International Room, University Center.

•Oct. 12 - Board Room, University Center.

•Nov. 9 - International Room.

•Dec. 14 - International Room.

Members meet for lunch in the university cafeteria at noon, prior to each meeting. For more information, Neale can be called at Belleville Area College, 534-4410.

Plans complete for Labor Day telethon

To those with neuromuscular diseases like muscular dystrophy, the Jerry Lewis Labor Day telethon to benefit the Muscular Dystrophy Association is seen as a lifeline of hope and continued treatment. Local portions of the 21st annual show will be broadcast live from Crestwood Plaza beginning at 10:30 p.m. Sunday, Sept. 6, on KSDK Channel 5.

The telethon will run through 5:30 p.m. Monday, Sept. 7.

The 19-hour non-stop variety show will again originate from Caesar's Palace in Las Vegas and be carried by more than 200 stations nationwide.

Hosted by comedian Lewis and "Tonight Show" co-host Ed McMahon, the Labor Day telethon continues to be MDA's single most important fund-raising event.

Last year, residents of this bi-state area donated $832,000 to help fight muscular dystrophy. Local volunteers will be trying to top that figure this Labor Day.

KSDK meteorologist Bob Richards and Y-98 FM radio personalities Phillips and Wall will be stationed at a giant fishbowl, welcoming donations by fund-raising groups.

Manning the telephone banks will be area fire chiefs, members of the Big Red Line and Steam Heat Dancers, and business and labor leaders.

During the two-day event, the public will be invited to compete for prizes at fund-raising booths located throughout the mall. This year's booths will include the Anheuser Busch Clydesdale corral and the 7-Up Frisbee toss. The booths will open at noon on that Sunday and remain open until 5 p.m. Monday.

In addition to the booths, there will be aerial ladder rides given by the Creve Coeur fire department, and visits by Fredbird, Moolah Shrine clowns, Six Flags characters, Ronald McDonald and Sparky the fire dog.

Telethon dollars help benefit patients nationwide by supporting basic and applied research, a comprehensive program of medical and social services for patients and their families, and far-reaching professional and public health education.

Causes of headaches analyzed

Nearly everyone experiences an annoying headache from time to time.

Headaches can take many forms. Most common is the tension headache that results from muscle contraction. It's usually marked by a tightness across the back of the head, neck, and shoulders or a "hat-band" feeling around the head. Tenderness in the scalp or areas of the neck and shoulder may be accompanying symptoms.

Stress is apparently the prime culprit in tension headaches. Muscle tension is a common response to aggravating situations.

With no let-up in stress, muscles may spasm, causing pain and anxiety which only serve to further tighten muscles. The result: a painful tension headache.

Migraines are another form of headache, usually even more painful. They can last from a few hours to a couple of days, and are more common in women. As many as 30 percent of all women and 20 percent of all men suffer occasional migraines.

Hormonal changes accompanying menstruation or use of birth control pills are often associated with migraines, which may help to explain the high number of women affected.

Unlike tension headaches which are muscular in nature, migraine headaches result from constriction of blood vessels. They usually are marked by a throbbing pain on one side of the head. Early warning signs of an impending migraine—especially visual problems—may appear hours before.

While women are more susceptible to migraines, for men it's "cluster" headaches. These are characterized by an intense pain behind the eye which can last from 30 minutes to a few hours.

Usually, such headaches occur in clusters over a period of several weeks.

A fourth type of headache is that which results from other diseases or conditions.

Football '87

Warriors hope some of 1986 magic rubs off

By Dave Whaley
Executive sports editor

GRANITE CITY — Football coaches aren't usually thought of as sentimental, and Ron Yates probably isn't any more so than any other coach.

But he can't help but think back fondly on the Warrior Class of 1987. Last year's group of seniors, for those of you who have been in a coma for 12 months, grabbed Granite City's first Southwestern Conference title since 1946 and ended the 44-game winning streak of the nation's top high school team. They also won the first playoff game in school history.

But that's in the past, and 20 seniors are gone from that team. There are 23 seniors on the 1987 Warriors who are waiting to create their own memories.

"We lose 20 seniors and 15 starters," Yates said. "But you have to do that. If you aren't losing a lot of seniors every year, the chances are you don't have a good program."

Sounds like Yates is looking ahead and that's all there is to do. After the loss of exceptional seniors like the Hogan twins, Eric Ryterski, Paul Sutter, Tim Davis, John Kabendjian, Dave Bamber, Charles Yarbber, Mike Georgeff, Scott LeVault and Todd Rhoads, not much is expected of the Warriors. At the same time, they will be watched closely because of the fame the team gained after the win over East St. Louis.

"It's a double-edged sword," Yates said. "But we should expect competitive. I really do. It will be tough to win eight games and make the playoffs again, but you always have to shoot for a winning season. Our goal is the same. We want to get into the fourth quarter with a chance to win. Then we hope our conditioning will carry us."

It worked last year in close wins over Cahokia, Normandy, East St. Louis, Alton, Belleville East and Quincy in the playoffs.

"Our power offense helped contribute there, especially in the Belleville East game," Yates said.

The Warriors clinched the conference with that 14-10 win at East on Halloween night. Granite City threw only one pass in the second half — the winning touchdown strike from Hogan to Hogan. The rest was up to a relentless ground game.

Look for more of the same this year — or at least hope for more of the same. With the Hogans gone, it's unlikely there will be any aerial show in 1987. Yates might adapt Woody Hayes' credo — three yards and a cloud of dust.

And there are some runners available. Senior Len Whiteside ran for 565 yards last year and a 4.0 per carry average. He had more than 100 yards in the epic win over the Flyers and the winning touchdown. Team captains Terry Stanley and Kevin Sutphin will join Whiteside in the backfield.

"If we get the seams in the line, any of those backs should do well," Yates said. "Stanley is a plowhorse. Whiteside is a waterbug and Sutphin is in between. I'm not afraid to use any of them and Kevin can catch the ball a little. Stanley is the best blocker."

Chris Bartling will start at quarterback, although sophomore Joe Wallace will be waiting in the wings.

"Because of our inexperience, we will have to get the ground game going and use the clock," Yates said. "We'll have to run when they expect the pass sometimes. Last year, Timmy could throw when they expected us to run. And there was always 6-4 Eric (Ryterski) to throw to when Jamie wasn't open (which wasn't often)."

Jim Stout and Kory Burton will share time at tight end, and they could both be in on many occasions as Yates might use a double tight end formation often. Seniors David Hunt and Marvin Weber will see time at split end, and they have some big shoes to fill.

"They have both shown something, but of course they have a long way to go to compare with Jamie Hogan," Yates said.

Up front, seniors Jon Pryor (265 pounds) and Clint Payne (245) will provide size at the tackles. Ben Szedlar, Mark Giese and Paul Millard will be the guards and captain Steve Stockman was an all-conference choice at center a year ago.

"We'll have to keep them honest with some passing unless the running game is so powerful we don't have to," Yates said.

Defensive coordinator Bob Stegemeier is hoping for the best from a young defensive unit which has shown some enthusiasm.

"There is a lot of inexperience, but we have some hitters," Stegemeier said. "We're not there yet on technique and understanding, but the hitting and enthusiasm is there."

Senior Brian Dix and junior Dan Grayson have the inside track for the end spots, while junior Ali Mohsen, senior Gary Golden, Payne and Pryor are tackles. Stockman (5-8, 200) and Craig Dippel (5-10, 175) are the inside linebackers while Millard (5-11, 180) and Giese (5-11, 180) will be outside. Burton (6-2, 190) and Weber (5-9, 145) will be the cornerbacks with Sutphin (5-11, 175) at safety.

"The secondary is green outside of Sutphin," Stegemeier said. "And we're still looking at Bartling, Vince Freese, Hunt and Steve Terziowski. Everything is still open to change. We'll know a lot more after the first game. I hope we are respectable. We just have to avoid the big plays like we did when we beat East St. Louis. When they played us in the playoffs, they got three big plays to win."

Burton will likely handle the kickoff and placekicking duties, while Szedlar or Dix will punt. Sutphin, Weber and Jeff Kohler are candidates to return kicks.

"We're still looking at the special teams," Stegemeier said. "We don't have a threat to go all the way at any time. But we want somebody who can catch MADISON — A warning should go out to all of those planning on watching the Madison Trojans play football this year.

Look fast. Football is a sometimes brutal game decided by the big boys in the trenches. But it doesn't hurt to have some speedsters who can dash through the piles of hulking combatants. Don Smith might qualify to be a track coach by the time the season ends if things happen the way he envisions it.

"We're going to have lots of speed," he said. "There is a lot of talent available at the skill positions. We could have some big plays this year and be interesting to watch."

There is no need for Smith to apply for Charlie Steptoe's job

as track coach at Madison. He can just borrow from Steptoe's squad the likes of Ian Smith, the Illinois Class A 400 meter dash champion last spring. Jesse Leonard, another stalwart from the track team, will also be a part of the Trojans' deep and potentially dangerous offensive backfield.

"There have been about 15 guys out here who could play in the backfield," Smith said. "It's nice to have that depth, but it will really come down to how well the line blocks for them." The Trojans, coming off a disappointing 4-5 season and hoping to re-emerge as one of the top independents in the area, are not without depth on the offensive line. The right side is anchored by a pair of seniors, 270-pound guard Fred Strauthers and 250-pound tackle Vincent Valentine. So look for the Trojans to run right a lot, at least early in the year.

"Valentine and Freddie are the only ones there with much experience," Smith said. "So it's hard to say how good they will play. We'll see who's in shape and who can do the job."

Robbie Posdon, Quincy Williams, Derrick Treadway and Demarque Crochrell.

Senior Demarque Crochrell is the leading candidate to play tight end.

Behind that line will be returning senior Quincy Williams at quarterback. He completed 39 percent of his passes last year for one touchdown and ran for 121 yards, but Smith is hoping to throw the ball more this year.

"Stephan Boyd will be the wideout, and Crochrell has some more experience," Smith said. "He has pretty good hands and speed. We'll have Quincy rolling out quite a bit to throw."

The Trojans lose their leading receiver from last year — Gary Stanley — and their leading rusher — Angelo Cross (868 yards). But there will be plenty of reinforcements in the backfield.

Flyers, Pioneers should be powers

In a little more than 24 hours, one giant slice of Americana will begin to be served for another autumn.

There might be several things that equal it, but what is more Norman Rockwellish than high school football? What can beat watching a bunch of exuberant 16- and 17-year-olds jump about in a delirious frenzy as one of their own breaks into the open and goes in for six points? What can beat watching cheerleaders ecstatically hug each other in victory — and cry shamelessly in defeat?

Pigskins will be kicked off all throughout the metro east at 7:30 or 8 p.m. tomorrow evening. That odd-shaped ball won't stop rolling around until the Saturday after Thanksgiving when the state championship games in all six classes are played at Hancock Stadium in Normal.

When it's all over, don't be surprised if at least two of the six state champions are from this area. In fact, two of them could come from the same town. It's the town directly east of St. Louis, and that's how it got its name.

You know all about the East St. Louis Flyers. State champions from 1983-85, they fell off their perch when Homewood-Flossmoor defeated them 18-15 in a Class 6A quarterfinal game at Parsons Field. It was the Flyers' first loss at home since 1977.

But that was only one of two losses. Bob Shannon's team suffered last year. You probably remember the other one. When their 44-game winning streak ended at Memorial Stadium on that apocalyptic overcast afternoon of Oct. 4, the consensus was the Flyers would just get angry enough to roll to their fourth straight state title.

Instead, they sputtered the rest of the year. Quarterback (See ESL, Page 4D)

Flyers — who else? — top poll

By Jim Beer

Journal staff writer
Some things are as sure as death and taxes — like East St. Louis High School fielding a powerhouse football team.

These days, however, Flyer coach Bob Shannon is looking for respect and a few answers from his team.

Last year — for the first time four years — the Flyers didn't win an Illinois state title or even the Southwestern Conference crown. The Flyers had their 44-game winning streak halted by Granite City 17-14 in the fifth game of the season. Then they lost in the state semifinals at home to Chicago's Homewood-Flossmoor and wound up with a record of 10-2.

In a USA Today pre-season poll of the top 25 prep teams in the nation, the Flyers are not mentioned.

East St. Louis fared better, however, in the annual Suburban Journals coaches large school poll. The Flyers compiled 178 points, edging out Hazelwood Central (170) for the area's No. 1 ranking.

East St. Louis should receive plenty of competition for the top spot as the season progresses. The Flyers pay a visit to Soldan on Saturday and host DeSmet at Busch Stadium on Sept. 12. Last year, East St. Louis struggled against DeSmet, winning 21-10 at Parsons Field.

Senior Lennie Gooch is projected to start at quarterback, while senior running back Marvin Lampkin, with a 6.3 yard rushing average totalling 534 yards last year, will be a mainstay at fullback. He will be supplemented by senior Alvin Johnson and junior Jason Ford.

Shannon calls this year's team a talented group that is ahead of some of his previous teams. His players have been boning up on academics — 10 seniors have already met the minimum requirements of Proposition 13, putting them in line for potential college scholarships.

Hazelwood Central will be strong, but Hazelwood East is ready to tip the Hawks from their Suburban North perch. The issue could be settled Sept. 12 when the two schools meet at 6:30 p.m. in the second game of the Busch Stadium kickoff classic.

Central senior Mario Johnson, a 6-4, 290-pound defensive lineman, has drawn positive reviews and the views of college recruiters. He's already been tabbed a pre-season prep All-American. The talent-rich Hawks feature a skillful quarterback in junior Lorenzo Brinkley Jr., who threw for 792 yards in 1986. Senior David Mays may get a chance to replace running back Chavis Ferguson, who rushed for 1,120 yards last year.

Hazelwood East finished third in the pre-season poll. The Killer Bees' senior running backs Ron Boles and Paul Bland — will carry the mail for the Spartans, while standout senior line-backer Larry McDaniels is expected to head an experienced defense.

Sumner, Parkway West Vianney, Kirkwood, Mehlville, Granite City and Riverview Gardens round out the coaches top 10. Granite City, 8-3 last year, must replace the Hogan twins, Jamie and Tim.

In the small school poll, Country Day was picked again as the top dog with 183 votes. Veteran coach Ron Holman should shake his head and say someone else ought to be picked — like rival Burroughs or some other powerful team.

Country Day's Mike Mayweather made the leap to college U.S. Military Academy at West Point) while David Son has departed for Harvard University and tight end Tharner Baur is at Stanford University.

Still, the Rams always have fresh replacements. Chris Livingston, a very skillful quarterback, is only a junior. Senior Scott Wernerburg, a 200-pound defensive lineman, had 71 tackles in 1986.

No. 2 Althoff lost only one game in 1986, 47-6 to Rock Island Union in the Illinois Class 4A state semifinal game. That spoiled an otherwise perfect 12-0 regular season.

Coach Glenn Schott must replace graduated running backs Juan Cox (943 yards rushing) and Tim Gula (602 yards).

Berkeley and John Burroughs are third and fourth in the poll, followed by East St. Louis Assumption. Senior running back Jacques Norris could be the secret weapon for the Pioneers.

Norris rushed for 1,125 yards last year. He rushes, however, in the shadows of all the great players at East St. Louis High.

Assumption coach Jim Monken usually has a speedy backfield, and the Pioneers are looking for post-season play once more, coming off a 9-4 season.

Roxana, the sixth-ranked team in the poll, posted a 9-3 record last year, falling to Althoff 7-0 in the Class A quarterfinals. Coach Charlie Raich has his hands full finding a replacement for quarterback Scott Hamilton, who passed for 913 yards and rushed for 1,408 yards.

Hillsboro, Lutheran North, Freeburg and Union round out the top 10.

Knowing the score

A NEW SCOREBOARD is lifted into position at the Granite City High School soccer field on Tuesday morning. The new board was donated to the district by the Pepsi-Cola Bottling Co. The board is suitable for use by both the soccer and baseball teams, with separate sections for each, unlike the old board, which had been in use since 1975. There were no separate sections for balls, strikes and outs on the old board. The time clock was used to designate those at baseball games. Walter Milton of Pepsi and District 9 Superintendent Gilbert Walmsley watch the $5,000 scoreboard being put into place. It will be in operation for the Warriors' first soccer game tonight against Belleville Althoff. Junior varsity action begins at 5 p.m.

Hinterser leads good class at Rend Lake

Todd Hinterser isn't your typical college baseball recruit.

He comes complete with personal resume: Middle name, Eric; 40-year time, 4.77; academic information (ACT and SAT scores, National Honor Society, etc.); athletic history, including hockey and soccer careers as well as baseball; member, Dewey Avenue United Methodist Church; student council in senior year; chairman, "Toys for Tots" campaign; references. It's all there.

But the Granite City native should fit right in. It isn't your typical college baseball recruiting class at Rend Lake College.

Warrior coach Paul Evans, himself a native of Granite City, "Not trying to be overconfident, but I would have to say this is one of the best recruiting classes we've had in a long, long time. I'm not just saying that in terms of numbers, but in ability, too."

I'm anxious to see what this class can do."

And we're not talking about a program that hasn't been without its recruiting bonanzas in the past. The Warriors have won league honors twice and finished second the other three years since the formation of the Great Rivers Athletic Conference. In 1985-86, they were 82-26 and one win shy of a berth in the junior college World Series. The school has posted winning records in 14 of the last 15 years while playing a combined fall and spring schedule.

There are several players returning from a 50-38 team last year, but there are several additions from the metro east area to this year's squad. In addition to Hinterser, new Warriors include East St. Louis' Lawrence Moore, Highland's Craig Sands, Coulterville's Shane Kemper, Freeburg's Mike Joseph and Belleville Althoff's Tom Myatt.

Sands had 18 strikeouts in an American Legion outing for Highland this summer and played in the District 22 All-Star Game. He was 9-2 with two saves in the high school season.

Kemper was a .400 hitter for Marissa in American Legion play and had 14 home runs while throwing out 16 of 19 would-be base stealers.

Joseph was a two-time all-conference second baseman for Freeburg and hit .427 for Smithton legion team.

Moore is an extremely quick player who could play shortstop or in the outfield. He stole 45 bases for East Side and was an all-state player for the Flyer football team last fall as a receiver.

Myatt was one of the leading hitters in the area during the high school season. He had two hits in the Illinois coaches all-star game in Peoria this summer.

CARS RACE around a turn at St. Louis International Raceway on Sunday. A limited schedule of races was set up at the midway late in the summer after it was opened by the St. Louis region of the Sports Car Club of America. Mac McDonald of Brentwood, Tenn. Joe Peters of Chesterfield, Mo., and Morris Clement of Collinsville were winners on Sunday.

Waterfowl hunting dates announced

Waterfowl hunting dates have been announced for Missouri, Illinois and Arkansas.

All three states will have a 40-day duck season, with bag limits the same as last year. The bag limit is reached when the total point value of the last duck shot reaches or exceeds 100 points. There will be no open season on canvasback ducks this year.

The Missouri duck and Canada goose season in the north zone will run Oct. 3-Dec. 9. The south zone duck and Canada goose season is Nov. 2-Dec. 13, and Dec. 26-Jan. 11. The Swan Lake Canada goose season will run Oct. 31-Dec. 9, or until 10,000 Canada geese have been bagged.

whichever comes first. The limit on Canada geese in this zone is two per day. Elsewhere in Missouri it is one per day.

The Mississippi Zone Canada goose season will be Nov. 9-Jan. 17 in the South Zone and the Lower Mississippi Zone, and Oct. 31-Jan. 8 elsewhere in Missouri. Snow and blue goose limits will be five daily and 10 in possession, two daily for white-fronted geese, with four in possession. A hunter may not have an aggregate goose bag of more than five geese, 10 in possession.

The Illinois duck season in the north zone will run Oct. 14-Nov. 22. The central zone season will run Oct. 22-Nov. 30 and the southern zone begins Oct. 29 and concludes Dec. 7. For the first time in several years hunters will be allowed two Canada geese per day in all three zones. Goose season in the north and central zones parallel the duck season. In the south zone the goose season will be Nov. 16-Dec. 25. Shooting hours are one-half hour before sunrise to sunset. The Illinois early teal season runs Sept. 5-13, with shooting hours 7 a.m. to 4 p.m., and a bag limit of four daily and eight in possession.

Trojans

will be the fullback with Ian Smith at the back. Smith said, "And we'll have Jesse Leonard in the slot position. He and Smith have both shown pretty good hands coming out of the backfield."

Ball averaged 4.5 yards a carry last season. O'Fallon and Derrick Treadway were also above four yards a carry. Craig Ingram is yet another candidate to carry the ball.

Defensively, Smith will be relying on many of the same players. Straubers and Valenline figure to anchor the defensive line as the tackles. Crochrell should see some time at end, while Smith is hoping for contributions from 305-pound junior Kurt Gregory.

"He could give us a break as far as some of the guys having to play both ways," Smith said. Ingram is the hardest hitter on defense, Smith said, and will get one of the two linebacking spots, as will Boyd, who had seven interceptions last year in only six games.

"Quincy will also see some time at linebacker," Smith said. "He was the second leading tackler on the team behind Ted Kemp."

Ian Smith will play the safety position, while Treadway will man one cornerback spot. The other corner is between Sanders and Devlin Rockett.

Clarence Williams, one of the top players on the Trojan soccer team, has been brought in to handle the kickoff duties. Robbie Poston returns as the punter and will also try to kick.

"We bought a holder for him and Robbie worked quite a bit over the summer," Smith said. "He's pretty accurate from 30 yards in. But we probably won't try too many field goals."

Smith could use any of his speedsters to return kicks, and that's where the Trojans might put the hurt on some opponents.

"We might return two or three kicks for touchdowns this year," Smith said. "We have some very skilled people back there."

Four of the Trojans' losses were to playoff teams last year (Ducato, Freeburg, East St. Louis Assumption and Hardin Calhoun). Assumption would appear to be the toughest of that group this year, and the Trojans get them at home on Oct. 23.

"We always play them tough here," Smith said. "We can't overlook anybody as we found out last year. But the Assumption game could be the big one. They have some runners in (Jacques) Norris and (Vernon) Slaughter. And they have added some kids from Alhott. It might come down to which team is healthier at that time."

But before then, the Trojans open at home against Vandalia. The two teams had a melee at the end of their game last year at Vandalia, which Madison won 32-0. Then the Trojan's team bus was bottled by Vandal fans.

"One thing I am sure of is aware of that," Smith said. "I hope we can avoid any trouble."

The Trojans visit Columbia before hosting Waterloo, which beat the Trojans last year. But the Bulldogs lose 16 seniors from that team. The Trojans have a chance to build up quite a few wins before getting into the meat of the schedule. Dupo, Red Bud, Freeburg, Assumption and Quincy Notre Dame.

"We should be over 500 for sure," Smith said. "We can play well against the better teams we can be around 8-1. No one has stepped forward yet. But we're working well together and we're ready to get to the games."

Kerwin Price broke his leg as East Side just squeaked by Belleville East 7-0 in the first playoff game. But they will lose a lot of seniors as well. But because of the great depth of football talent at Belleville, the Lancers will probably be a little better off than Granite City.

As for Collinsville, well, they have an excellent soccer program. Bob Hollingshead had a lot of fun early last year when the Hawks picked up three early wins after having gone almost a bet with his players. The Hawks are a little better than they were, but they will suffer a few more scalps this year.

Now, as far as that other potential champion from East St. Louis, no further than the Assumption Pioneers of coach Jim Monken.

Monken is one of the nicest guys around and a pretty good football coach to boot. It's not that easy coaching football at a private school with an enrollment around 300, especially with two other high schools in town taking up most of the top athletes.

But Monken has done it — and how. Four times he has taken the Pioneers to the state semifinals, including last year after they started out 1-3. After that start, this very young team won eight straight before falling to Decatur St. Teresa in the Class 2A semifinals.

Like the competitive players like Shawn Gaines, but there is plenty of talent returning. Like the backfield of Jacques Norris, Vernon Slaughter and Shauntez Elsay.

The strong finish last year combined with the load of talent returning could mean big things for Assumption. One of their bigger games could come at Madison on Oct. 23. The Trojans will score points this year and be exciting. If they get enough defense and keep their top players from becoming ineligible because of bad grades — a problem last year the Trojans could make some noise.

the ball and get us good field position."

The Warriors open at Cahokia on Friday before playing at Normandy next Saturday. The home opener is against Belleville West on Sept. 18.

"If we stay healthy, I'm starting to get a little excited," Yates said. "Cahokia always has some good athletes and lots of speed. I just want to see how we do against somebody else. We'll know a lot more after that game."

Cahokia was 1-8 last year, including a 27-0 loss to the Warriors in the opener.

GRANITE CITY — Ray Guss Jr. took home $3,000 for his efforts at Tri-City Speedway on Saturday.

Guss was the big winner in the U.M.P. late model stock car race, 40-lap event that was part of a five-race series which started at St. Charles, Mo., Aug. 28.

Larry Phillips set the qualifying time of 21.25 seconds, and he and Kevin Gundaker made up the front row in the long race and had themselves quite a race until Guss moved in to take over the lead.

Phillips took second place and Gundaker was third, followed by Tom Helrich, Paul Schaefer and Bert Cheatham. Bo Smith took the first heat race, while Gundaker took his heat and the handicap event for the six fastest cars followed by Phillips.

There were 22 late models on hand for the event.

Charles "Pee Wee" Morris was the winner of the street stock car feature event followed by Don McElroy.

Racing is held every Saturday evening for the four classes. All season championships will be held on Sept. 12.
